CURTISS FIELD, VAL-crowd of about 500 aviation enthusiasts, Capt. Dieudonne

The little red school houses are buzzing with activity. Pupils are back at their desks. School buses on the highways, carrying loads of youngsters to and from their classes.

It won't be long until the Porters-ville to Elwood road will be opened to traffic, Pa Newc would judge by the appearance of things. It is a splendid new road.

Traffic is thick on the Perry highway. The new road is being appreciated by motorists and just about all of the New Castle people have given it a tryout. However, as yet there are two little detours that slow up the speed and furnish a series of most annoying jars. There is one detour at Rock Springs and another several miles further south.

Burns are being graded along several places on the Perry highway.
Head-walls seem to be all completed.

Signs which forbid left hand turns at Mercer and Washington and Mill and Washington streets, which hang from the traffic lights, are down today. This does not mean that left hand turns are allowed, however.
Traffic Officer Tommy Jones warns
The signs were taken down to be replaced and will be replaced, probably tomorrow.

Overhead traffic signals are now in place on the public square, replacing the former signals, which were on

Fewer Auto Fatalities On Roads This Year In Lawrence County

Fatalities in Lawrence county

the first eight months of the pres-

first eight months of 1929, accord-

At this time last year there had last one being the death of Jef-

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 4.—Disaster followed today in the wake of a serious earthquake in the Ypaon district of India, 80 miles southwest of Rangoon, according to an exchange telegram dispatch.

Scores of natives were missing after

Thousands Gather At Texas
Airport To Watch Com-

(International News Service)
DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 4.—Preparations were virtually complete today for the reception of Capt.
Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French airmen who were first to complete a Paris to New York non-stop flight across the Atlantic.

Excitement reigned throughout the city and in many sections of the state as well, as crowds began to gather at Love field where the Frenchmen are to land their giant red sesqui-plane
"The Question Mark", and claim a $25,000 prize offered by Col. William Easterwood, Jr., wealthy sportsman.
State and city officials cooperated in arranging the welcome. An escort of army and civilian planes were gathered here this morning ready to proceed northward as far as the Oklahoma border and escort the two French aces to Dallas.

Elaborate arrangements for policing the welcoming throngs were being made. Texas national guardsmen will assist the local police in handling the airport crowds.
The Easterwood purse will be given to Coste and Bellonte if they succeed in completing the non-stop 1800-mile flight from New York, taking off within 72 hours of their arrival in New York.

Among the prominent speakers will be Dr. Harris E. Kirke of Baltimore,

Flower Show Here Next Week

To Be Held Wednesday And Thursday At Carnegie Auditorium

Despite the drought, which for a time threatened to handicap the annual Flower Show of the Lawrence County Garden Club, the show now promises to be the outstanding one of the entire group of shows which have been presented. This year's show will be held in the Carnegie auditorium on Wednesday, Sept. 10, and Thursday, Sept. 11. On Wednesday the doors will be open from two to 10 p. m. and on Thursday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.
Headed by Mrs. David Ritchie, the president, the Garden Club has been at work on the plans for the show for many weeks. With them have been the New Bedford and the Edenburg Garden Clubs co-operating, and the list of entries already indicates a successful show.

Exhibitors are urged to get their entry blanks filled out and to have their blooms in the showrooms on the night before the show opens.
This will avoid the last-minute confusion which has sometimes marked the opening day. Those who cannot get their blooms into the show room

Bitter Denunciation Of Ruth
Hanna McCormick's Tac-

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—With United States Senator Gerald P. Nye insisting that he will not be "intimidated" by the efforts of private detectives, investigation of Mrs. Ruth Hanna Mc-Cormick's campaign expenditures by the senate committee stood adjourned today until September 15.
Immediately after adjourning the two-day session which was confined largely to Mrs. McCormick's efforts to have Senator Nye and members of his staff shadowed by private detectives, the North Dakota senator issued a statement which read:

Statement Issued.
"The committee will not be diverted from its clearly defined duty by any smoke screen laid down through a will to threaten, intimidate and influence."
"No matter how unpleasant and distasteful is the responsibility in Illinois, I shall, as far as I am able, continue to guide the investigation along the same lines thus far followed."
The senate committee chairman, who renewed his investigation of Mrs.
McCormick's expenditures two days ago after finding that he himself was being investigated by the Republican senatorial nominee, left last night for a vacation in Wisconsin.

Bitter Denunciation.

committee chairman and members

Registration Of Voters Is Started

Today Is First Of Three Registration Days For Fall Election

Voters of New Castle who expect to cast their ballot on November 4 began the task of registering today, with a light registration reported from the various registering polls.
The polls opened at seven o'clock and were open until nine. They closed between nine and eleven and are open until two. At four o'clock they are to open again and will be open until 10 o'clock, eastern standard time.

Two other days will be allotted for registering, September 16th and October 4th. All voters, regardless of party affiliation or whether or not they had registered before, must re-register if they wish to vote in the November election.
To register it is necessary to present a county tax receipt, either of this year or of 1929. City tax receipts are of no use for this purpose.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
TAHOE TAVERN, Cal., Sept. 4.—
It was a historical day for France Tuesday. They flew the ocean and run W. R. Hearst out of their country.
That was a pretty cute statement he handed 'em back, but it will be lost on 'em. Frenchmen individually have plenty of humor, but as a government they take everything mighty serious.
There is nothing can be as funny or as little as a nation when it tries to get back at somebody.
If every country run him out for publishing something they didn't want published, we would have had him exiled at birth, and he would now be residing in Siberia.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Hav-

President Hoover has determined

Immense Property Damage Is

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—
Three hundred persons have been killed and 900 injured in the tropical hurricane which tore through the center of the city of Santo Domingo, according to an estimate made today by the All America Cables Company from radio messages received from the scene of the devastation.

The capital city of the ill-fated island was reported as "practically destroyed" with buildings crumpled and debris strewn over the highways and countryside.

The core of the hurricane apparently struck the city squarely crushing structures and flipping lighter buildings into splinters.

Trees were spun into the air like toothpicks and the government radio towers were blown down delaying communication of the disaster to the outside world by many hours.

Madmen Escape
Adding to the terror and confusion of the populace was the overrunning of the streets by scores of madmen who escaped from the city's insane asylum.

The hurricane cracked down the insane asylum and the inmates not killed or injured ran screaming through the city.
Part of the bridge spanning the river in the center of the town was blasted away by the giant wind storm.
The inhabitants of the city were rept suffering from hunger, the supplies of food apparently having been destroyed in the storm. Many who escaped in scanty attire were in need of clothing.

Hundreds of refugees wandered in

Postmaster Frank Clary Who Greeted Coste When Forced Down Sends Invitation

PLAN TO MAKE TOUR OF COUNTRY

(International News Service) SHARON, Pa., Sept. 4.—Captain Deudonne Coste and his companion, Maurice Bellonte, famous French aviators who made the first Paris-New York non-stop flight, today were invited to land here when they make a tour of the country.

The invitation asked Coste to land on the same field where he and Joseph Lebrun, his former flying partner, were forced down in a snow storm in March 1928 while enroute to South America from the coast.

Postmaster Frank Clary of Sharpsville, who was one of the first to welcome Coste when he was forced down, sent the invitation on behalf of the citizens of Sharon.

Many local citizens who obtained souvenirs from the famous flier at that time have placed them on display here. Dr. Myron Murstein, who was wounded in France during the World War, probably has the most unique souvenir, an American dollar bill autographed by Coste.

DuBois Youth Is Killed By Train

Youth Riding Freight To California Falls Beneath Wheels

(International News Service) PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 4.—The dream of John Ogershok, 18-year-old DuBois youth, of a trip to California ended in Adrian hospital today when the boy died of injuries suffered when he fell between two cars of a freight train.

John and Pasta Paship, 21, both of DuBois, boarded a Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh freight train last night to begin the journey they had planned for weeks.

As the train moved on, John was suddenly jolted from his vantage spot and fell between two cars. His right leg was ground off but, despite the loss of blood, the boy hung on desperately to a brake beam until Paship notified the conductor who brought the train to a halt.

Shock and loss of blood were given as the cause of death at the hospital.

Miss Elizabeth Froelich, Miss Esther Jefferies, Mrs. Florence Jefferies and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ward and daughter, Mary Louise, were in Pittsburgh Wednesday attending the funeral of Samuel Johnston of California, who was killed in an automobile accident last week, while enroute to his home. The accident occurred in New Mexico.

Mr. Johnston was a former resident of Avalon, Pa., and was widely known in New Castle.

You're the JUDGE

Two men were standing about 50 feet from the side of a railroad track engaged in earnest conversation. Suddenly from around the curve came a train, not speeding, perhaps, but at a rate greater than was warranted by the thickly populated neighborhood through which the train was passing. Also the train came along without warning, no bell ringing nor whistle sounding and in addition the locomotive was so turned that its light was toward the cars that it was drawing.

Almost at the same instant one of the two men who was in conversation perceived that a child was playing on the track and would surely be killed if not instantly removed. He, therefore, rushed on the tracks, grasped the child and threw it clear of the rails. But before he could fully clear the track himself the engine struck him and so injured him that the following night he died.

His widow filed suit against the railroad for damages. At the trial the railroad officials argued that the man's rush onto the tracks to save the child was a voluntary action and thus he would voluntarily place himself in peril, and in that case the widow was not entitled to any damages.

standards on the ground. The changes were made as a result of orders from the state highway department.

Several woodmen, with their sharp axes and saws, cut down two large trees on East North street, near the intersection of North Mill street. By the time they read this they will have been hauled away and but a few mangled leaves on the sidewalk and several white topped stumps as evidence.

Have you ever been to Frisco? No, we are not speaking of California, but of Lawrence county. The little place is located about three miles from Ellwood City, south-east. Quite a number of local people who have lived in this county all their lives have never heard of Frisco.

Cockroaches are proving themselves very troublesome at police headquarters. With recent redecorations of the halls in the city hall, the insects were driven from their old homes. The result has been felt by all copers, it seems. Now costs that had been hanging on hooks are carefully searched before put on.

A police sergeant took a small rose bud to police headquarters last week. He had a bottle with water and placed the rose bud inside. Now he is delighted with his enterprise. A full fledged rose has grown and officers wonder at the horticultural ability of the sergeant.

He characterized the sleuths' methods as "shoddy and unprincipled." The statement follows: "There has been available evidence indicating that it could be ultimately shown that a certain candidate for the senate was at least indirectly responsible for the engagement of detectives to operate against the investigating committee and its employees.

"But in view of what is known the shoddy, scabby, unprincipled, unconscionable, contemptible method and practice employed by those engaged to do this work, I was amazed to read the statement of this candidate in which guilt of such employment was admitted.

"What is Nye going to do about it? Is a question contained in this confession by the candidate."

Senator Nye then stated that the inquiry and "shadowing" methods would not divert his committee from the investigation.

and smiled to the crowd as he opened the throttle and the "Question Mark" zoomed into the air.

He circled the field once, swooping down within one hundred feet of the cheering crowd, and then headed southwest.

Coste and Bellonte were followed at the start by several planes from the Curtiss airport. The roar of the plane gradually died down and within five minutes the "Question Mark" had disappeared from the sight of the observers here.

Dallas is 1400 miles from Curtiss airport, Coste said before he left that he hoped to make the trip in 10 hours, his plane is capable of making 150 miles an hour. That would bring them into Dallas about six o'clock this evening.

The route to be followed by Coste and Bellonte would take them over Eastern Penn., Allentown, Penn., Pittsburgh, Penn., Steubenville, Ohio, Louisville, Ky., Little Rock, Ark., and then into Dallas.

Pass Over Pittsburgh Rogers Field, Pittsburgh, Sept. 4.—Plashing in from the east like a fiery meteor, the crimson French trans-Atlantic biplane "Question Mark" swooped low over this field and roared away into the west at 10:45 a. m. today.

Captain Deudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, whirling with bullet-like speed toward Dallas, Texas, where a prize of $25,000 awaits them, were flying at a height of about 500 feet. Their speed was estimated to be about 100 miles an hour.

Sunshine, fair weather, and a high ceiling to the westward prosaged a steadily successful culmination of their New York-to-Dallas flight.

Weather Bureau forecaster, reported today.

In the absence of direct reports from Santo Domingo, due to the collapse of wire communication, the forecasters estimated that the hurricane was central today over the extreme northwestern portion of Haiti and is probably taking a west, north-westward course.

The bureau's hurricane warning, broadcast to all steamers, read: "The tropical disturbance has moved northward from the city of Santo Domingo and is apparently central this morning over extreme northwestern Haiti.

"Although the disturbance has crossed the mountainous region it is still likely of hurricane intensity and it probably will move northward during the next 24 or 36 hours near the northern coast of Cuba toward Florida Straits.

"Caution advised all vessels near its path."

The Navy wireless stations at San Juan, Porto Rico, and Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, were both open and functioning today, but no new reports were forthcoming from them during the forenoon.

president will reach directly, in a week, the financial interests, the labor vote, the war veterans, and the "Hoover-crats" who split the solid south for the first time in 1928.

In those four groups lie the great bulk of the vote, necessary to control next November if the administration is to receive a vote of confidence. The bankers must be convinced the business depression was inevitable, and lessened through the efforts of the White House, rather than a mishap wrought by federal mismanagement.

Labor must be assured the tariff had nothing to do with unemployment, and actually will open new jobs ultimately. The world war veterans, rapidly reaching a voice of authority in national politics, are a most essential group to victory, and, finally, it appears to be the Republican decision to make a strong fight to hold what was gained in the south two years ago.

Abandoned Vacation. When President Hoover announced cancellation of his vacation swing through the National Parks of the Rocky Mountain region to assume personal charge of drought relief, there were near-open rumblings to the effect he was glad of the chance to call off the western trip. It was whispered that the word had come in so consistently from the country that the executive was in public disfavor, he was afraid to show himself and risk actual demonstration of the fact.

These whisperings were followed by an energetic outburst from Democratic publicity headquarters, charging up virtually all of the nation's ailments to Mr. Hoover. Senator Fessenden, chairman of the Republican national committee, went into conference with the president and emerged with a radio address in which he undertook to defend the White House on every count.

Politicians, therefore, are of the belief the president has accepted the gauge of battle and decided to fight it out on the lines the Democrats have laid down.

STAR LORE OBJECTS VISIBLE TO THE UN-AIDED EYE IN THE HEAVENS

By Arthur De V. Carpenter Did you ever try to enumerate the different kinds of physical objects your eye may pick up in the evening sky? Well, there is the multitude of stars; usually from one to three planets along the belt of the zodiac; the Milky Way; if a clear night, between August and January, you might see the Andromeda Galaxy; and the rift in the Milky Way beginning in Cygnus and extending many degrees southward, which apparent rift is but a veil of dark nebula hanging in front of Milky Way stars obstructing their view; possibly a comet may be in sight; some "shooting stars"; the moon; and by day the sun.

SUE HARVARD TO GIVE CONCERT AS HOSPITAL BENEFIT

representative citizens were present and the preliminary plans outlined.

For some time there has been a rather general demand that Sue Harvard be asked to present a concert recital in her home city. When the matter was presented to the artist she said she would be pleased to do so, but would prefer to put it as a benefit for some worthy local institution. With this idea projected, the Jameson Memorial hospital was suggested as being a proper recipient for such a benefit and the idea met with the unanimous approval of the artist and the committee in charge. The date has been set, the tickets will be printed immediately and committees formed to make the concert the success it deserves to be.

Should Fill Cathedral. The announcement of such a concert will undoubtedly meet with the hearty approval of the people of New Castle and Lawrence county. Sue Harvard is an artist of whom New Castle is justly proud. Starting in humble circumstances with little but a golden voice and an indomitable will to win, she has forged ahead in her chosen field until today she is the highest paid church soloist in the United States, a concert singer with a national reputation and a former member of the Metropolitan Opera.

In early days of her career Sue Harvard was a church singer in New Castle. As her voice developed and her possibilities became apparent she left New Castle for a larger field, going from here to Pittsburgh then to Germany to study and then to the center of the musical world, New York. Here she has been a conspicuous success and her willingness to return to New Castle for a benefit recital for the new Jameson Memorial hospital is a graceful gesture to the city where she first entered the field of music. In private life she is Mrs. Herbert Newton Armstrong.

Other Artists. Not only will Miss Harvard appear in concert on September 30 but she will bring with her three other artists, a pianist, a cellist of note and an organist. This is not just a concert with her. It is her tribute to her native city and she wants it to be the best thing she has ever done.

There is no question about the success of the recital from the standpoint of artistry. It is something that is already assured. From the standpoint of the people of New Castle the success of the concert will be achieved only with the proper organization and backing, and this also seems to be assured from the sentiment of the meeting in the home of Mrs. Johnson on Wednesday evening.

The price of the tickets, the sale points and other details will be announced later. For the present the big thing is that Sue Harvard is coming back on September 30 to sing for her townspeople for the purpose of aiding an institution that bears the name of one of New Castle's giants David Jameson.

Florida Uneasy As Hurricane Blows In Region Around Cuba

All Shipping Halts As Reports Reach Florida Of Severe Hurricane In Islands

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 4.—Florida population centers today scanned with uneasiness reports of the hurricane raging in the Caribbean sea and advancing over the Bahama islands.

The tropical radio early today stated that several ships are reported to be in the path of the West Indian storm, but no calls for help had as yet been intercepted.

Radio and cable communications with Santo Domingo were severed late yesterday, the last report: from the islands stating that the devastating winds had reached a velocity of 150 miles an hour toward the storm center.

The hurricane changed its course, heading north by northwest, the weather bureau here was told. The storm's general speed forward, however, was estimated here at only 12 miles per hour.

Practically no ocean-going craft left port here last night, heeding the storm warnings which were posted yesterday. The gulf stream's northern flow increased perceptibly last night and heavy cross seas caused by the storm were noticeable today.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., Will Get Post In Federal Reserve

President Hoover Has Selected Meyer As New Governor Of Federal Reserve

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Eugene Meyer, Jr., who has occupied several government berths since war days, is to be the next governor of the Federal Reserve Board, it was learned officially today.

President Hoover has been withholding the announcement of Meyer's appointment until a legal tangle could be unwound, but a solution has been found in the expected retirement of Edmund Platt, vice governor of the board. Both Meyer and Platt are from the New York district and the law prohibits two men on the board from the same district. Platt is to re-enter private business, it is said.

Meyer is a former chairman of the War Finance Corporation, has long been associated with finance. He will succeed Roy A. Young, who resigned the chairmanship to accept the presidency of the Boston Reserve Bank.

Crime Never Pays

WHEN ROADS ARE PERFECT

RETURNING from a highway tour covering several states, the state highway engineer of New Jersey announced his conclusion that now that his state has about completed its highway system it must begin to build it all over again because it is inadequate for present-day needs. This is happening to all states, more for lack of funds than for lack of foresight.

Highway engineers are unanimous in the opinion that roads must be widened to twice or three times their present width, that fast and slow traffic must be separated, crossings at grade eliminated and city traffic better regulated, if the increasing volume of motor traffic is not to become hopelessly jammed and is not to take a still greater toll in human lives.

Sometime the driving of a motor car will be joy unalloyed. Buses and trucks will travel on their own private lanes. Fast automobile traffic will have roads to itself free of slow-moving vehicles, blind crossings and sharp turns. There will be no grade crossings, no red lights and no traffic cops. The roadside scenery will be free from distorting billboards.

And when all this comes to pass the nation will desert the ground to take to the air. Our civilization is like that.

"WHO'S WHO" AND COLLEGE

This year's edition of Who's Who in America contains 29,704 names. The biographical sketches show that 23,000 of this number, or about 85 per cent have had some college training, and nearly 20,000, or 73 per cent are college graduates.

When it is found that of the whole adult population only 4.55 per cent have attended college and hardly more than 20 out of every 1,000 are college graduates, those 20 have three chances of getting their names in Who's Who for every one chance open to the 980 who do not graduate from college.

This leads immediately to the popular conclusion that university training is essential to success. Educators will no doubt seize upon this new argument for college education and make the most of it.

While higher education is an aid to success, it is not as essential as the Who's Who analysis argues. Educators will concede that most successful men and women are successful for the same reason that they went to college. They went to college because they wanted to do something big in this life and probably would have done something big if no college had been accessible to them.

The number of college men whose names appear in this blue book of success has little or nothing to do with the desirability of a college education in individual cases.

WHO OWNS THE STOCKS?

It is popularly supposed, no doubt, that in the stock crash last fall most of the losers were the little fellows who were novices at the game of speculation. While many small fry were caught in the panic, it now appears that the heaviest losers were more experienced professionals.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that thousands of small investors took advantage of the drop of stock prices and bought at low levels while the professionals were unloading out of necessity. Some interesting results are shown by a recent count of stockholders of several leading corporations.

Today Montgomery Ward has more than six times as many stockholders as it had a year ago; General Motors has more than three times as many; International Telegraph three times as many, while United Gas, Electric Bond & Share and other utilities have more than twice as many stockholders as they had this last year.

These new stockholders bought when prices were low, and most of them bought for permanent investment, not for speculation. They are receiving good dividends on their investments so it appears that the past year has shown the little fellow from Main Street to be smarter than some of the big fellows in Wall Street.

It is very easy to rise in your own estimation.

SUPERSTITION

Does superstition play a large part in your life?

There are many things you won't do at certain times because you think it is unlucky.

You wouldn't be married on Friday, or go back for something without sitting down, or spill the salt without throwing some at once over your left shoulder.

Isn't that silly—such childish fears? And you are not alone in superstitious fear.

It is surprising the number of persons who carry "lucky pieces." Thousands of people pass under a ladder—countless others are filled with apprehension if a black cat crosses their path.

To see the moon over the left shoulder without money in your pocket, especially the new moon, is a sure sign that you will have to work hard for every cent you get that next month.

To raise an umbrella in a building or drown a family of kittens in the hearts of some otherwise sensible people.

Scores of things, just as foolish, are keeping a lot of persons from enjoying life and bringing to pass unhappiness through mental dread.

If you want to be thought a normal person don't give way to any influence as "unlucky."

THE VERY GOOD LITTLE BOY

Oh, Tommy was a willing lad
Who gladly went to school
And learned to read and write and add

And every rigid rule
And Tommy never placed a pin
Upon his neighbor's chair
Or carried living reptiles in

The little girls to scare.

He never scuffed his feet about,
He never disobeyed.
This Tommy boy, week in, week out
A close attention paid.

It seems the curious whim he had To be as good as gold.
And teachers should have liked the lad
Who did as he was told.

I do not mischief recommend Nor disobedience praise,
'Tis not for that this verse is penned Though Tommy's perfect ways.

Were all the teachers pleased for Let now the truth be told,
They loved the little rascals more
They sometimes had to scold.

Gallant French Fliers.
The Beautician's Resolve.
To Help Business, Spend.
Senatorial Comic Opera.
Small Crop, Better Price.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1930, King Features Syn., Inc.)

As this was written Coste and Bel-lonte, French fliers, were skimming over Boston, south along the coast of North America, on their crossing from Paris to New York, the first westward, non-stop flight ever made. Paris, wild with joy and pride, is celebrating, and displaying pictures of Lindbergh and Coste, side by side.

Unlike new wine in old bottles, the new engine in the old Breguet plane Question Mark, with many famous flights to its credit, is working admirably.

Beauty parlor gentlemen now call themselves "beauticians," which, unpleasantly, suggests "mortician," the new name for your undertaker.

And beauticians will add to their beautifying processes by lessons in "charm."

"Where, except in the beauty parlor, should the American woman go to learn the more subtle forms of feminine charm?" The beautician asks you.

To take a middle-aged lady, dye her hair, paint her face, lift it, eradicate the wrinkles, remove superfluous hair and add "feminine charm" seems to be a very complete job.

T. F. Wallace, head of the National Association of Savings Banks, sees the end of the slump, because savings deposits increased $225,000,000. Savings shows strength of mind, but the end of the slump might be still nearer if those that put the $225,000,000 extra into savings banks had put it into circulation, buying merchandise.

What people spend makes prosperity, what they save makes them safe.

Experts of Harvard college, also cheerful about "better times," think a business revival is coming because prices of bonds are rising. That proves that bond buyers have money to invest.

There again, if the man that bought bonds had bought an automobile, a piano, new furniture or a house in the country instead, he would have done more for improved business than all the rising prices of bonds could do. Spending is what the country needs.

There is comic opera in Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's battle with Senator Nye.

Senator Nye went exploring on the trail of Mrs. McCormick to find what she did with money spent at the primaries. She spent a great deal, she had to.

Now, to his indignation, Senator Nye finds Mrs. McCormick hiring detectives, 10 by actual count, to trail along after him and find what he does.

Questioned, Mrs. McCormick says, "Of course, I did it. What is Senator Nye going to do about it?"

Senator Nye answered yesterday by subpoenaing the detectives that were shadowing him.

The public feels sure that Mrs. McCormick never did anything wrong, that Senator Nye never did anything wrong, and finds the whole thing amusing.

The head of the Farm Bureau tells farmers the best thing for them is a crop below normal. In one year farmers increased their potato crop 142,000,000 bushels and got for the bigger crop $242,000,000 less than they got for a small crop the year before. In 1924 they got $300,000,000 more for their corn than they got the following year, for a corn crop 600,000,000 bushels bigger. The same thing applies to cotton. It doesn't apply to automobiles or to steel.

All in one day the Prince of Wales is promoted in the Army, Navy, and Royal Air Force. The wise British separate their air force from the other two. He is vice admiral of the fleet, lieutenant general in the Army, air marshal of the flying fleet.

The young prince is made to realize that there are advantages in being "born right."

On the other hand it is probably more satisfactory to work to the top without help, like Napoleon or Nelson.

A gentleman described as "Red" would apply a Russian idea to New York City, and stop payment on the city's debt, principal and interest, as Russia stopped payment on the Czar's bonds.

Also the New Yorker would reduce all public salaries, using the money to pay $25 a week to everybody out of a job until each individual found a job.

As half the people in New York are working for less than $25 a week now, they would probably be many out of a job for some time.

On the seventh anniversary of the great earthquake of 1923, there is dedicated in Tokio an earthquake memorial hall on the spot where 33,061 were burned to death.

Five hundred thousand Japanese have made pilgrimages to the memorial, heaping up great mounds of offerings to the spirits of the dead. The spirits of the dead, doubtless, will do their best to prevent future disasters. Buildings of steel on the American plan, as safe in an earthquake as so many market baskets, would do more.

There had been a motor wreck. One of the drivers climbed out in a fit of temper and strode up to a man standing on the sidewalk, thinking him to be the other driver.

Fletcher's Ability Lauded But Tariff Views Debated

Selection For Chairmanship Of Board Inspires Differing Opinions As To Possibility Of Utilizing Flexible Clause Of Law

Selection of Henry P. Fletcher for the post of chairman of the Tariff Commission is debated in its relation to future changes in duties under the provisions of the flexible clause of the Tariff Law. The appointee's ability is widely recognized, and it is felt that his career as a diplomat has fitted him for the task of fostering foreign trade. The fact that he is a Pennsylvanian gives rise to the thought in Democratic circles that he may be inclined to retain the existing rates on imports. More favorable comments credit him with a broader viewpoint which will be favorable to a spirit of compromise.

"His appointment," in the opinion of the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN (Ind. Rep.) "assures the country the scientific regard for economic conditions without which no tariff can ever completely protect American industry and its workers from the competition of underpaid low-standard nations in which unit costs of production are so small that American wages and living scales cannot stand against them. For thirty years this son of Pennsylvania has been in the Foreign Service, devoting himself to economic, trade and financial problems and conditions. He is eminently fitted to head the Commission in the extensive studies which it is about to undertake."

"There is a man of worldwide experience who may be expected to approach the problems of the tariff commission from a broad viewpoint," declares the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS (Rep.) while the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL (Ind. Rep.) states that "counting past performances, President Hoover appears to have been fortunate in finding Mr. Fletcher available and willing to step into the new position." The KALAMAZOO GAZETTE (Ind.) feels that Mr. Fletcher should possess unusual qualifications for making the tariff law workable. Surely the task is one that will call for a great deal of diplomacy.

Assuming that "no name that the President can send to the Senate as that of a member of the Tariff Commission is likely to have smooth sailing to confirmation," the NEW YORK EVENING POST (Ind.) concludes: "The President's choice for chairman ought to fare as well as anybody else who could have been named. Mr. Fletcher's varied abilities are unquestioned, and his diplomatic duties have kept him out of tariff struggles, factional or other."

"President Hoover," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR (Ind.) emphasizes his long and meritorious service abroad and his intimate knowledge of international economics. After all, the tariff is both a foreign and a domestic affair. The flexible plan, by which rates are to be adjusted in case of need, is essentially concerned with competitive conditions overseas. Few Americans have enjoyed Mr. Fletcher's first-hand opportunities for knowing what these conditions are. Mr. Hoover is formally pledged to put teeth into the flexible clause. Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania is the dentist chosen to direct the execution of the President's will. It is destined to become a major operation. The country wishes him well in its performance."

Emphasizing the political affiliations of the appointee, the DAYTON DAILY NEWS (Ind. Dem.) asserts that the commission "as headed by Mr. Fletcher, promises no relief from conditions created by the Grundy act. It will see as one with the President," continues The News, "and the inclusion of Mr. Fletcher reveals a further concession to the Pennsylvania interests."

The ROANOKE TIMES (Ind. Dem.) avers that "as a Pennsylvania Republican of the Boies Penrose type, his attitude toward the tariff naturally reflects his political and economic environment."

"He is a sign of maintenance of the Old Guard status quo in tariff recommendations," submitted to the President in the opinion of the ASHEVILLE TIMES (Ind. Dem.). The CHARLOTTE OBSERVER (Ind. Dem.) comments: "Politicians profess to see in the fact that the President went to a high-protection State for his chairman, indication that no radical departure is anticipated from the Grundy scheme, but others see only promotion of a capable man and an intimate friend of the President." The HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH (Rep.) remarks: "Mr. Fletcher is an earnest exponent of the protective tariff and working with the President as a Pennsylvanian he will have tremendous influence in adjusting the schedules so as to avoid serious friction abroad and a home."

"The appointment," according to the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT (Ind.) "may be interpreted as the first step for giving that body greater prestige and authority with the public and Congress than it has ever had before. As a Pennsylvania and protégé of Senator Penrose, his protective orthodoxy will be generally assumed and a long resident abroad ought to have given him a view somewhat different from that of mere tariff dogmatism."

"He comes from Mr. Grundy's high-tariff State," agrees the WORCESTER TELEGRAM (Ind.), "but what of it? Poor old Mr. Grundy's overwhelming defeat in the Senatorial primaries would almost indicate that Pennsylvania is not the citadel of Grundism, whatever that may be." Pointing out that "satisfaction is expressed in France that the new chairman is a diplomat," The Telegram concludes: "Certainly he cannot at one and the same time fulfill the gloomy predictions of his American opponents and the cheerful predictions of the foreign admirers."

The importance of the appointment as a means of maintaining good will with other countries is attested by the ERIE DISPATCH-HERALD (Rep.), the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL (Ind.), and the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS (Ind. Dem.). The LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL (Ind.) declares he "is no isolationist" but adds: "Whether he has been in the land

Gap Between Mercer And Pittsburgh Is Shortened By Road

Motorists Negotiate Distance Between Two Places In Hour And Half

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 4.—A travel agency between Mercer and Pittsburgh adds a new chapter today. The city is now but 1½ hours by auto from Mercer, is the report of local drivers who have travelled the Perry highway just opened.

Fifty years ago it was three days by ox-cart, then a day by horse, with better roads it was reduced to 10 hours by stage coach, then lowered to three hours by train. Old timers who have viewed these changes have hopes of living to see the distance covered in 20 minutes by plane.

There will be a fair crop of grapes in Mercer county, is the report of growers. The large percentage of the crop was killed with the early frosts. It is said that in many cases the vines have come out again. The crop is likely to be late and somewhat reduced in quantity as a result but compared to the other fruit crops will be on a par.

IN SIX WEEKS KONJOLA ENDED DREAD NEURITIS

Young Lady Had Abandoned Hope Of Relief—Then Modern Compound Came To Rescue.

MISS PEARL FARRELL

"I suffered so long from neuritis and nervousness that I had about reached the belief that I could never find relief," said Miss Pearl Farrell, 110 River Road, Wilkes Barre. "The pains in my shoulders were terrible and all the medicines and treatments I tried did not do me a bit of good. A friend recommended Konjola. I had little faith left in medicines, but my friend was so enthusiastic about Konjola that she induced me to try it."

"What a surprise was in store for me. Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place, for it is the only one that ever did any good. In six weeks the neuritis and nervousness were entirely gone. I am feeling better today than I ever expected to feel again. After my experience I know there is no medicine in the world to compare with this Konjola."

When taken for six to eight weeks, Konjola, the new and different medicine, will work wonders that will astonish those who suffer from the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Unidentified Man In New York Slain

Slayers Throw Out Body Of Man On Riverside Drive, Laugh, Then Speed Away

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The bullet-ridden body of an unidentified man was thrown from a sedan early today on Riverside drive.

"Let him go," shrieked a woman's voice, and the body came hurtling out of the car, witnesses told police. Laughter was heard in the car as it sped away. Two men and a woman were in the automobile.

A quantity of cocaine found in the man's pocket led police to believe he was the victim of a dope war.

The victim had been shot six times, probably just before he was thrown into the street. The man was about 40, well dressed and his clothes revealed scars from several speakies.

The number of the car was not obtained but a good description was furnished detectives.

Every time you pick up a book review page you see that Walter B. Pitkin has written another volume. Every time you grab up a magazine at the railroad station and settle down in the smoker to improve your mind, you find an article by Walter B. Pitkin. Walter knows it all, from the intricacies and peculiarities of fifteen-ball pool to the causes of dandruff, among the Phoenicians.

In an article in yesterday's paper he said "Had Thomas A. Edison never lived, the world would have had electric lights almost as soon as it actually did get them."

And from there he goes on to show that Alexander Graham Bell, Henry Ford, J. P. Morgan and the Wright Brothers went to a lot of unnecessary trouble in being born. If they'd remained from appearing when they did the stuff for which they're famous would have come along as per schedule and they'd never have been missed.

But suppose Walter B. Pitkin had never been born? There's a thought to carry around to stop you from being chesty just 'cause your name happens to be in Hoo's Hoo!

Another Big Peach Reported

It seems the peach trees of the city have put forth an extra effort this summer to produce large peaches, in spite of the fact the trees went so long without rain.

L. W. Wittman of Atkinson street reports to the News this morning that he picked one from his tree in the back yard weighing 10 ounces and measuring 10 1-2 and 10 3-4 inches around. The tree is well filled with peaches, all nice sized ones but Mr. Wittman has not found any larger than the one he reported. They are of the Elberta variety.

There is also another tree of white peaches in his yard that is heavily laden with fruit, one of the branches having broken off this morning with the weight of the crop.

Let Doctor Test Ears Of Pupils

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Next to vision, hearing is the most important thing to measure for the school child.

Just as in the case of defective vision, defective hearing may go unrecognized, and this situation leads to the belief that the child is mentally incompetent.

One of the commonest causes of defective hearing is a simple thing—the plugging up of the external ear canal with wax. It is surprising how often this goes unsuspected for a long time and leads to a considerable amount of disability. Removal of the wax is, of course, relatively easy, though it should always be done by a physician, who knows the anatomy of the external ear canal and will avoid injuring the ear drum. As a well known New York specialist used to say, the only thing it is safe for a person to put in his own right ear is his left elbow.

The essential test of hearing is the ordinary speaking voice. A child who can hear an ordinarily spoken voice at six feet is fit to be taught in an average class. Acute hearing, of course, is much better than that. If the child can only hear distinctly at three feet it should be put on the front benches or in a special class.

The watch test should be made on every class, using the same watch for each child. A watch of average loudness should be heard at a distance of about four feet. The best way of testing is to use a stop watch and make the child say when it is shut off. If a stop watch is not available, an ordinary watch held close to the ear, and then moved slowly away can be used. The child is taught to say "stop" when it can no longer hear the ticking of the watch.

The most serious thing about the ears, short of total deafness, is pus discharge. This is also one of the most serious physical conditions of the whole body. It may not, however, be accompanied by any deafness whatever.

Discharge from the ear means, of course, inflammation of the middle ear with perforation of the ear drum. Its great danger consists in the possibility that the infection will spread from the middle ear to the mastoids, and even from the mastoids to the brain, causing a brain abscess. Every child with either an intermittent or continuous discharge from the middle ear, should be under the care of a competent physician. The most likely cause of the condition is an infection of the throat, the tonsils, or especially the adenoids. An infected adenoid may lie over the opening of the eustachian tube which goes from the throat to the middle ear, and continuously infect the middle ear. After its removal this danger ceases.

Rain Will Be Aid To Bass Fishermen

HARRISBURG, Sept. 4.—Several days of rain early in the present month should make September and early October ideal for the bass fishing in all streams where they are found. N. R. Butler, commissioner of fisheries, said today.

Reports to the commission from the larger streams indicated many good catches despite the unusually low water.

Like reports also were received from several lakes which boast good bass fishing, especially Lake Wallenpaupack in northeastern Pennsylvania.

GARDNER NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Hazen of Ellwood City, came to Gardner on Sunday afternoon, bringing little Donald Coleman Hazen, adopted son of their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hazen. Little Donald received a royal welcome when he arrived at the home of Donald Coleman, and Mrs. Edna Brandenberger Colman, of Beaver Falls. They had been married nearly twenty years. But his mother was called away in a few weeks and his father in a few months. They have many friends at a distance who read this paper and who will be glad to learn that Donald is a remarkably bright, handsome child and he now has a home where he will have every advantage that love and prosperity can devise.

Owing to the similarity of names, many are confused as to who is now preaching at Gardner. The minister here is Rev. Albert Joseph D. Shoemaker, who came from Allentown and now lives in New Castle. Many are positive that it is Rev. Albert Jesse Ringer Schumaker, who is manager for the New England district of the American Baptist Publication Society, and lives in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Moore of Gardner entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walls and children on Monday. Mr. Moore built a fire in the yard and the little folks had a fine time at a wiener roast before they went to their home on the Youngstown Hill.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Benson of Gardner was largely attended. A group of women of the village sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me" at the opening and close of the service. Rev. Oscar Woods, pastor of Bethany Lutheran church, in New Castle, brought a very earnest message which was full of comfort for the sorrowing family and friends. Owing to ill health Mrs. Benson had lived a very retired life for many years, but her uprightness of character, her fidelity to duty, her love of home and family, made her a worthy example in the community. She was held in the highest respect by all, there was a wealth of lovely flowers bearing their silent message of sympathy and esteem.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Shaffer of Gardner went on Sunday to Poland, Ohio where the reunion of the Kelley family was held. On Monday evening Mrs. Shaffer entertained at six o'clock dinner Mr. and Mrs. Huffaker and seven children, who are relatives from Princeton, Ill.

The death of William Hanna, of New Castle was a great shock to Lysle Slater of Gardner, as the two men have worked together for many years and drove to the city together on Friday evening and Mr. Hanna seemed in good health and excellent spirits. Saturday morning they received word of the death of Mr. Hanna. Mr. and Mrs. Slater went to the funeral on Monday.

17 Distinguished Women Sit in Unique Council

Mrs. James J. Davis, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Anne Morgan, among members of committee to view spectacular tests of new soap discovery

THE story of a remarkable new achievement of science—startling in its significance to millions of American women—was revealed recently in news reports of what is claimed to be the most unusual meeting of its kind ever held. Seventeen distinguished women—called together by a prominent manufacturer—to witness a pre-showing of a commercial product.

Tests Tell Dramatic Story

First chemists pointed out how modern hasty washboard laundering of silks demands an utterly different kind of soap than chips or flakes. How they set out to make a soap that would dissolve instantly...rinse away 100% and cleanse in water cool enough to be safe for silks. How they finally solved this problem by making a soap of olive and palm oils...in the form of tiny, hollow, instant-dissolving "beads." Then the tests of the new soap began.

Thirty Times Faster Than Old Ways

Mammoth test tubes revealed how the new soap dissolves 30 times faster than the thinnest chip or flake! Rinses away completely, instantly! Used in water barely lukewarm, it cleanses at new low temperatures never usable before—safe for the most fragile silks, the finest woolsens.

So revolutionary was the new soap, so perfectly did it fulfill requirements no soap has ever been able to meet before, that the Committee of Seventeen unanimously approved it as "soap ideal for washing silks."

Called Palmolive Beads

Because this new soap is as gentle and effective for delicate fabrics as Palmolive is for the skin, it has been given the treasured name "Palmolive Beads."

Wash delicate colors, fine woolsens, lovely chiffon hosiery in the gentle, protective suds of Palmolive Beads again and again. Then note how much longer lovely fabrics wear! Palmolive Beads are for sale everywhere.

Second Diary Of Andree's Reveals Many Hardships

Diary Found Strapped To Back Of Long-Lost Explorer Reveals Suffering

WORLD ANXIOUSLY SCANS DOCUMENTS

Now Believe That Andree Was Last Of Exploring Party To Succumb To Cold

By ARNE KILDAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 4.—The world looked hopefully today to the second diary found strapped to the back of Solomon Auguste Andree, silent leader of the first expedition into the frozen and mysterious North. Experts of the Swedish-Norwegian commission conducting the study of the remains of the Andree party announced that in this previously unknown document, far more legible and better preserved than all other writings, may be found the more detailed and graphic story of the ill-fated venture.

Carefully wrapped in oilcloth and epistle with a description of hardships endured and adventures encountered, its stained pages already have revealed to the scientists that Inuit Frankel third expedition member, perished during a heart-breaking trek across the ice from latitude 63 north, where Andree's balloon landed, to White Island (Vitoen).

Andree Died Last
It showed further that Andree was the harder and more enduring of the three, living alone in bleak solation for many days after Nils Strindberg succumbed to the rigors of the Arctic climate.

Working diligently to pluck the 33 year old secrets from the pages of the diary, scientists gradually were able to piece together the whole story of the expedition in the tragic months from July 1897 to September 5 of that same year, when death beckoned to Andree.

Their balloon landed them safely on a Polar wastes, but a brief survey of the locality in which they landed showed that further progress toward the North Pole was impossible. From then on it became a question of fighting their way back to civilization, a journey over icy snowfields and lizard-swept plateaus disheartening to contemplate.

The trio, nevertheless, lost no time in setting forth on their return trek. Frankel, the youngest, died first. His remains have not been found yet and presumably he was buried in one unlocated spot. Andree and Strindberg reached White Island 200 miles from their starting point, after weeks of exhaustive marches in the face of extreme cold and wintry storms. Within a short time, it became Andree's sad task to bury his remaining companion in the shallow grave here his skeleton was discovered by Dr. Horn.

SANTO DOMINGO IS REPORTED IN RUINS AFTER HURRICANE

place where they could find some sleep.

The first airplane pilot to fly over the stricken city reported the heart of the hurricane apparently had cut over the city.

Pilot J. E. Williamson, flying an amphibian plane of the Pan American Airways, sent a radio message that he had flown over the ruined tropical city at 10:30 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time.)

The flyer did not report the number of dead and injured.

Immense Damage
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 4.—At least twenty persons were killed and immense property damage was wrought in Santo Domingo, capital city of the Dominican Republic, by the tropical hurricane which swept over the island, according to information obtained by the local office of the Radio Corporation of America.

The first report of actual damage in Santo Domingo was received from the Steamship Lady Hawkins, which put to sea but later returned to port in Santo Domingo.

The wireless station at the capital was completely wrecked by the storm, the message from the ship said.

Another message to the Radio Corporation office said that a Pan-American airplane plane had gone up for an aerial reconnaissance over the city after the worst of the storm had passed, and the pilot had reported that the city appeared to have suffered heavily.

Details of the damage were lacking because of the difficulty still apparent in maintaining any kind of connected communication with the Island of Haiti.

The Lady Hawkins is a steel steamer of 7,850 tons of British registry, operating out of Halifax in the West Indies service.

The wireless message from the ship was the first direct word of the damage wrought by the storm which has penetrated the wall of silence surrounding the Dominican Republic since the hurricane broke over the island.

Radio Service Out
MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 4.—Radio communication between here and Santo Domingo continued broken today, owing to the storm which has been devastated by a hurricane which was reported to have struck the Island of Haiti yesterday.

The last radio message received here by the Pan-American Airways from its Santo Domingo station was at 2:12 (E. S. T.) yesterday afternoon, when a wind of 136 miles an hour was reported sweeping the Dominican capital.

It was announced at the tropical radio station here and the local weather bureau this morning that they had been unable to obtain any reports of the hurricane or establish communication with the Island since yesterday afternoon.

(International News Service)
HAVANA, Sept. 4.—A disaster of major proportions was feared today in the wake of a terrific hurricane which roared out of the Caribbean late yesterday across the Dominican Republic before veering in its course towards Haiti and possibly Cuba.

The onslaught of the storm, with a wind velocity estimated at from 135 to 150 miles per hour, practically isolated the affected regions by disrupting all means of communication.

Indicated, however, that the storm caused immense havoc in the city of Santo Domingo as well as in other population centers of the island.

Millions In Damage
While loss of life was not reported in the first dispatches, property damage was estimated in millions of dollars. The storm during the night was traveling a westerly course, with a possibility of striking the northern coast of Cuba near Baracoa.

Observatory experts were of the opinion, however, that even though the hurricane touched Cuba, its center would be too far over the sea to cause extended damage on the coast.

Last communications from the stricken area were received shortly after the sale struck Santo Domingo at 3 p. m. yesterday, at which time it was increasing in intensity and ripping roof tops and trees into the air and hurling them through the streets.

First warning that the twister had changed its course came when a Pan-American Airways plane from Santo Domingo from San Juan put back because of heavy rain, winds and low visibility.

The Dominican Republic occupies the easterly two thirds of Haiti, with an area of 19,300 square miles and a population of more than one million people. Santo Domingo city counts approximately 50,000 residents.

Santo Domingo has suffered from devastating hurricanes and cyclones three times before, in 1876, 1893 and 1926. All three of these storms claimed many lives, although neither of them ever reached inland.

Causes Deep Concern
The uncertain path of the disturbance caused deep concern in shipping circles, and warnings to skipper scheduled to ply the waters between Cuba, Haiti and Porto Rico were issued. A number of vessels were known to be in the path of the twister, including the Porto Rico Liner Coamo, the United Fruit company's ships Heredia and Turrialba, the S. S. Ulua and others.

Pan-American Airways flights have been temporarily suspended, with all its planes safely berthed in various landing fields.

Failure to establish contact with vessels at sea gave rise to great apprehension, as the force of the storm was considered sufficiently violent to plunge an ordinary vessel beneath the waves. An indication of the depth of the disturbance was received in reports from all America cables that their lines flickered and died out during the night despite the fact that it operates a sub-marine cable.

City Demolished
Belen observatory here received scattered information substantiating to some extent the reports of devastation in Santo Domingo city. From a summary of the unverified reports gathered, it would appear that the

Homing Pigeons Are Started On Flight

Warren, Pa., Club Ships Flock Here For Express Office To Release

Duties of an express company office are many fold, and it is nothing unusual when a shipment of homing pigeons is sent here with instructions to release them so that they may wing their way back to the point from which they came.

This very thing developed again this morning, when probably 50 snow-white pigeons shipped here by the Conewy Valley Pigeon Club at Warren, Pa., were released in the driveway of the Pennsylvania railroad depot on the west side.

Manager J. W. Anderson explained that pigeon fanciers from many points ship their birds here, asking attaches of the office to release them. Seldom does a bird disappear while on flight.

The pigeon shipment arrived here after opening time this morning and every bird had been released and was off for the northern flight at 11:17 a. m.

Henry Home Children Prepare For Schools

School days, now in sight for the 34 children of the Margaret Henry home will bring to an end an extensive program of preparations for what may be called a great event.

When school bells ring again for city children, the Henry children will troop to the Pollock school, East Home street, where all elementary grade children of the home attend. Six will return to the Ben Franklin Junior high school and two to the senior high school.

But two will remain at the home. Little Bobby Weir, aged four, and Virginia Reinhart, five, will not start school because kindergartens will not operate this year.

During the past two weeks the children have made preparations to begin the school season. All were given dental treatments and 24 children had tonsils removed to comply with the recommendations of school physicians according to Mrs. Margaret L. Henry, superintendent of the home. Four children were vaccinated for the first time in their lives.

The home cares for 34 girls and 20 boys at the present time.

Warning Sign Is Needed At Crossing

Another Crash At Perry Highway Crossing Proves Need Of Improvement

MERCER Pa., Sept. 4.—Three killed in the last year and another car load of people narrowly escaping death over the week end proved the immediate need of the installation of some warning device at the Simpson Grade crossing of the Pennsylvania near here.

The crossing is on the Perry Highway now opened for travel. The Mercer county auto club reports an order secured from the Public Service Commission for the installation of a warning device but as yet nothing has been done.

All that averted the accident mentioned was the fact that the auto ran into a pole when the driver saw the track occupied by a freight train. The crossing is the worst hazard on the road and in the interests of humanity should be properly guarded.

ACCIDENT VICTIM BURIED
Mrs. Edward Buckham whose funeral took place at Greenville today and who died of an accident near Clarksville Sunday, is well known here.

Following a long period of residence during which the Waverly Hotel was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Buckham they left here 20 years ago for Greenville subsequently going to Erie where they have been engaged in business since.

COLLECT MERCANTILE TAX
County mercantile tax is now collectable by process of law. Of the 2100 taxable merchants all but 300 had paid before the expiration date of September 1st.

HONEY CROP SMALL
The 1930 honey crop will not be over half that of 1929 is the opinion of J. C. Stowe of Mercer who is the owner of 100 colonies of bees located in Mercer and Crawford counties. Stowe took off 6,000 pounds of honey in 1929.

He states that from inspection made there will be no clover honey for sale and that the buckwheat honey is picking up in amount due the recent rains.

Constables To Make Returns Next Week

Constables throughout the county who know of any infractions of the law or who know of any bad roads or bridges in their districts will make their reports when court convenes next week. Formerly it was necessary for all constables of the county to make their returns, whether they knew of anything or not. This custom, however, has not been in force here for a number of years. Only those constables who have something to report now make returns.

SHORTER ROUTE! LONGER TIME

Ellwood, Zelienople, Pittsburgh Shorter Route Than Perry Highway

C. V. Shoup of West View, who recently made a trip in less than an hour from Pittsburgh to New Castle via the new Perry Highway, had a most unusual trip home, it is revealed here.

When he started back to Pittsburgh, Shoup decided to veer his course slightly and took the road to Ellwood City, then leading to Zelienople and onto the Perry Highway in the Butler county town. Upon his arrival home he found on the speedometer that it was 2 miles shorter through Ellwood City and Zelienople, but that it had taken him three minutes longer to go home than on the trip to New Castle.

There is no question that the new Perry Highway has opened a new transportation route to Pittsburgh and vicinity that makes it possible for a return trip in three hours time. This route however does not take you directly into the heart of Pittsburgh. It is just 45 miles from New Castle to Pittsburgh via Ellwood City and Zelienople.

Complete Change In Traffic Lights

Warning Signals On Jefferson Street Raised At Suggestion Of State

City workmen have completed the task of removing the traffic signal lights which have been located on pedestals in the street at the Diamond at the corner of North Jefferson and North streets, and placing them above the heads of the motorists at the suggestion of the State Highway Department.

These lights have been located on heavy pedestals imbedded in the street, and create a traffic hazard in the opinion of State Highway officials.

The lights are now hung suspended above the heads of the motorists at a height of 15 feet, the same as the other traffic lights in the city.

BELIEVE ANDREE LAST OF PARTY TO PERISH

By ARNE KILDAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1930, International News Service)

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 4.—Evidence that Nils Stringberg, youthful companion of Salomon Auguste Andree, was a sick man when he and Andree reached White Island on their trek back toward civilization, and that this illness may have been the fatal turning point for the expedition, was uncovered today by investigators examining the relics of the expedition.

The findings of the expert commission examining these relics also established the belief that Andree had entertained hopes of pushing on from White Island—possibly to Franz Joseph Land—but evidently had abandoned this plan after Stringberg fell ill and died.

These deductions were drawn from the discovery that the expedition's boat, strapped to one of the sledges, was fully loaded with food, ammunition, navigating tables and the expedition's library, all indicating that when the camp was made at White Island it was intended to be only temporary.

Knut Fraenkel, third member of the party, already had succumbed to the hardships of the trek back from latitude 83 north, where the Andree balloon had landed, and after the demise of Stringberg, the examining experts believe, Andree found the task of moving the expedition's equipment with him in further search of rescue too great for himself alone. It must have been then that he resigned himself to death.

This resignation did not come immediately, however, as is shown by the fact that a number of Stringberg's possessions were found in the pockets of Andree's clothing.

Among these objects, identified by Tore Stringberg, brother of Nils, who is now here in Tromsø, as having belonged to his brother, included Stringberg's revolver and ammunition for it, a match box and pocket knife.

It was evident, in the opinion of the experts, that Andree had taken these trinkets in the hope that should he survive to reach civilization he could present them to Stringberg's relatives. The presence of these articles in Andree's pockets also served to confirm previous belief that Andree was the last of the party to die.

Hear Reports On Encampment

Commander Bell called attention to the meeting to be held on Wednesday evening September 10, in the Legion Home Building, when plans for bringing the 1931 state encampment of the V. F. W. to New Castle, will be discussed with representatives from the V. F. W. posts in the Tri-county district and representatives of the various service clubs of the city.

Amos 'N' Andy Save Man From Murder Charge

(International News Service)
DENVER, Sept. 4.—The nightly clowning of Amos and Andy over the radio saved a Denver man from becoming a defendant in a murder trial recently.

Two Denver men were killed in a gun fight. One of the dead men, a bandit, still held a gun in his hand when found, but the gun which had killed the bandit had disappeared.

Later it was learned the bandit's gun belonged to a third man, who was arrested in connection with the murder. Claiming the man had borrowed the gun from him on the pretense of using it for hunting, the suspect had no other alibi than that he had been home the night of the murder listening to the radio.

"Your home is several miles from the scene of the murder," said the police. "The murder took place at 8:30 p. m. Tell us what station you had tuned in and what transpired at the time."

The suspect related the Amos and Andy episode almost word for word, providing himself with a fool-proof alibi.

Pittsburgh Woman Claims Equipment Found With Andree

Mrs. Clara Andree, Of Pitts- Claims Documents

CAPTAIN BALDWIN MAKES STATEMENT

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4.—With the receipt of letters from the Swedish legation and from Captain E. B. Baldwin, at one time a proposed member of the Salomon Auguste Andree Polar expedition, Mrs. Clara Andree, sister-in-law of Andree, today expressed belief that her claims to documents and equipment found with the balloon explorer's body in the frozen north had been materially strengthened.

Captain Baldwin, who intended to participate in the ill-starred attempt to fly over the North Pole in 1897 but who arrived in Sweden a few days too late, wrote in part:

"I distinctly recall that Captain Ernest Andree, brother of Salomon, told me that he once came to America to visit relatives in either Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.

"Captain Andree was married and lived in Goeteborg. I have been informed that both the captain and his wife died some time ago. There was a sister living near Stockholm, but I do not know if she is still alive."

Father Buried Here

The letter from the Swedish legation, advising Mrs. Andree to communicate with the American consul in Stockholm, indicates Andree's sister in Sweden is not living. An at- tache of the legation wrote in part:

"Press notices state that he (Andree) is survived by, among others, four nephews, two of whom live in Sweden, one in Java and the fourth in Japan.

Mrs. Andree's claim to the documents and paraphernalia found with Andree's body and now enroute to Sweden is based on her assertion that her husband, Henry W. Andree, deceased, was a half brother of the explorer and that the father of both men, Jacob Andree, is buried in the local German Lutheran cemetery here.

Address By Dr. R. G. Baird Of Sharon Features Wednesday Session

On Wednesday evening the session held by New Castle Circle No. 5, Protected Home Circle, was featured with the presence of a number of prominent members of the order who added interest to the meeting with impressive addresses. Important among them were the remarks of Supreme Auditor and State Deputy Dr. R. G. Baird of the home office at Sharon, as he presented Walter W. Schroeder, recently appointed deputy, to have charge of the work in the local circle. Deputy Schroeder is a man unusually qualified and thoroughly acquainted with all lines of insurance and comes highly recommended to the members of No. 5. His pleasing personality with the frankness of his excellent remarks following Dr. Baird's address, won for him at once a cordial welcome from the membership. Other guests at the session were Junior Councillor Mrs. P. B. Forsythe, Mrs. Whillmena Anderson, treasurer, and Mrs. Lawrence Stevenson, sentinel of Baird Circle 123, Ellwood City. Councillor Forsythe referred in particular to the Junior department to be instituted in Baird Circle on September 30th, when a delegation from No. 5 will attend the ceremonial. Social activities for the fall and winter season are already beginning to attract the members and friends of the circle.

Spinster And Bachelor Tell How To Be Happy Though Wed

Each Gives 10 Rules For Opposite Sex Governing Conduct That Will Bring About Successful Lives As Husbands And Wives

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Cyril Clancy, a Liverpool Police Court missionary, is a bachelor, but he understands women, especially unhappy wives.

Kathleen Smith, of Chelmsford, Essex, has never been married but she knows the pitfalls of married life, especially the evils which arise when husbands are unhappy.

Clancy recently published the following 10 rules for unhappy wives:

If you marry him—love him.
If he is secretive—trust him.
If he is sad—cheer him.
When he is talkative—listen to him.
If he is jealous—cure him.
If he cares naught for pleasure—coax him.
If he favors society—accompany him.
When he desires a kiss—give it to him.
Let him think you understand him—but never let him think you manage him.

Clancy's rules no sooner were in print than Miss Smith bombarded the press with the following rules for unhappy husbands:

When you marry her—love her.
After you marry her—study her.
When she is blue—cheer her.
When she is talkative—listen to her.
If she dresses well—compliment her.
When she is cross—humor her.

If she does you a favor—kiss her.
When she is jealous—cure her.
If dinner is cold—eat it, not her.
When she looks pretty—tell her so.
Let her feel how well you understand her—but never let her know she is not the boss.

Council Hears Report On River Channel Survey

Survey, Recently Completed By State Engineers, Establishes New Channel Lines

CITY ASKED TO ESTABLISH LINES

Would Eliminate Future Flood Hazards With Completion Of Pymatuning Dam

Members of City council, together with County Engineer Thomas Gilley and Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Alfred W. Chilton, held a meeting in the city building this morning, when the report of the recent survey prepared by R. C. Batley with the aid of E. E. Haslam, assisting engineer for the Water and Power Resources board of the state, establishing new channel lines for the Shenango River was submitted to council for their consideration.

No action was taken by council at this time, as they were not in official session, but it is altogether likely that channel lines as recommended by the state will be adopted in the near future and an ordinance establishing the same, passed.

Flood Prevention Measure
The establishment of channel lines for the stream has been carried out as a flood prevention measure and to prevent further encroachment on the banks of the stream, principally by industries.

City Engineer Miller and his staff will probably be asked by council to go over the lines recommended by the state, and if any changes are deemed necessary, they will be sent to the state for their approval. This work would require anywhere from a month to six weeks to complete, it developed during a discussion of the report.

A number of recommendations are made by the board as a result of the survey recently completed by them, for flood control purposes, such as the removal of obstruction now existing at various points in the bed of the stream, slight alterations in the channel, and the erection of retaining walls, etc.

As a preliminary to the report to the Water Power and Resources Board, Chief Engineer Charles E. Ryder, has reviewed the history of flood prevention measures in New Castle, dating back to 1911, when the business section of New Castle was flooded to a depth of four feet by a cloudburst at the headwaters of the Neshannock creek.

Recalls Flood
While measures of relief were under consideration by city council here, the disastrous flood of March 26, 1913, occurred.

City council began at once to prepare comprehensive plans to prevent further occurrences of this nature, and on September 5, 1913, council requested the Waters Supply Commission of Pennsylvania to establish channel lines along the Shenango and Neshannock.

On September 12, after a preliminary hearing, city council ordered a survey to be made by the city engineer including the preparation of a map showing the cross-section of the Shenango river from the waterworks to the B. and O. railroad bridge.

The Water Supply Commission directed E. E. Haslam, then engineer on the Pymatuning Project, to cooperate with the city engineer in working out the details of the project.

A conference was held in which industries and property owners along the Shenango and Neshannock were asked to cooperate, all of whom expressed their willingness to do so.

A flood committee was then appointed, consisting of 20 representative citizens, who in turn designated a sub-committee of five men, which reported on March 20, 1916. Recommendations were made by this committee, as a result of which, property was purchased, the streams were widened, and bridges were erected of longer spans and greater waterways.

State Grants Aid
On February 9, 1927, the Water Power and Resources Board granted the request of the city for assistance in establishing channel lines along the Shenango river and the Chief Engineer, Mr. Ryder was ordered to proceed with the topographical survey and plans for this work.

On October 10, 1928, a special meeting of the Water and Power Resources Board was held in the city council chamber, and due notice was sent to property owners along the river and others affected.

Mr. Ryder states at the conclusion of his report of the survey to the Water and Power Resources Board, that upon completion of the Pymatuning dam, a channel has been established of the width and depth shown on plans accompanying the report, which will be capable of passing maximum floods without overflow or damage to abutting properties.

A capacity has been arrived at which will be sufficient to pass a flood one-third greater than that of 1913 and the velocity required to pass this discharge will be such as to reduce erosion to a minimum.

Mr. Ryder recommends the establishment of these channel lines as shown on the plans, that these lines be monumented on the ground, defined by metes and bounds and that an ordinance establishing the same be adopted by city council.

When and if these plans are carried out by council, and the channel lines of the stream established, industries or property owners who encroach upon the stream, will be required by the state to remove these encroachments at their own expense.

Vets To Elect New Commander

Annual Election Friday Will Wind Up Colorful Convention In Baltimore

Election of officers will conclude the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Baltimore, according to word sent here by delegates of the local post, now in attendance at the event.

No prediction has been made as to who the successor to National Commander Hezekiah Duff will be.

Wednesday was spent in sightseeing and funmaking by the delegates, following the big parade on Tuesday. Three steamers took delegates, their families, and visitors to the convention to Annapolis where they inspected the U. S. Naval Academy. The evening program included a torch light procession from the State Armory to the downtown section. The annual band, drum corps, and drill contest was held last evening also, while the Ladies Auxiliary held an exemplification meeting at their headquarters.

Today's session was occupied entirely with business, the encampment getting down to the serious side of the meetings, and tomorrow will bring a conclusion to one of the most colorful conventions ever held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Suits For Men This Fall Will Run Into Many Color Schemes

Brown, Blue And Green Is Prevailing Color For Men's Suits This Fall

Overcoats Will Be Dark—Derbies To Be Worn Quite Often—Evening Clothes Smart

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4.—With the first tang of autumn in the air, Pittsburgh's men-about-town were provided with a serious style topic today—to wit: The adoption of new and brighter hues for fall sartorial effects. Carlton P. Schaub of Minneapolis, president of the National Association of Merchant Tailors, is authority for statement that drab shadings will give way to a new series of color schemes, such as fashionable browns, blues, and even light greens, all in resplendent shades.

Style Cut Unchanged
The style cut of the clothing will be practically unchanged but light green and light blue will strike the new motif in the fall parade. Light tans, reddish browns, and grey and blue greys will follow next in popularity.

Male fashions will frown a distant taboo on raccoons and other furs for greatcoats. The tuxedo for evening wear, incidentally, must be worn only at strictly stag affairs. For other occasions, your smart man-about-town will bedeck himself in an evening coat with tails.

The trim double-breasted suit will take the style popularity bow. For those who shun the extra buttons, however, a three-button coat cut over body lines will be available. And the portly gentleman who likes his clothing loose and comfortable must satisfy himself with the two-button sack running last in popularity.

Overcoats Are Dark
The ultra-smart overcoat will be dark blue or oxford-grey. It can't be of fur and be smart, according to the new edict, but it can be from fitting, double-breasted with wide lapels, or a single-breasted Chesterfield. The gentlemen who possess the last may wear it for both day and evening use. Coming into its own again in the chapeaux field is the derby. Smart men will select it instead of brighter felts. Those who have a taste for softer headwear must content themselves with a curled brim homburg. Only this one style felt will be popular.

The smartest of the smart will sport a warm light green by day and tailed-coats by night. If he be economically smart, he'll shun the cold in a single-breasted Chesterfield. The collegian can shake the racoon for a new derby.

A magnificent display of silk "toppers" and frock coats at the tailors' convention here will settle all doubts of sartorial elegance. Officials of the Association assure you that . . .

"Those who make 'em, know how to wear 'em."

Youth Confesses To Brutal Crime, Murders Employer

Baltimore Extract Manufacturer Is Killed By Youth And Stuffed In Barrel

(International News Service)
BALTIMORE, Sept. 4.—The suspicions of a neighborhood patrolman who saw several boys tearing around nights in a new automobile led to the uncovering of one of the most brutal murders here in years.

fessed, according to the police, that he killed his former employer, Herbert G. Wetters, a well-to-do manufacturer of flavoring extracts, a month ago and hid the body in a barrel, into which he later poured twenty gallons of vanilla extract.

The boy had forged Wetters' name to a check for $500 and bought an automobile with the money, he told the police.

Wetters' body was found near his plant, the United Extract Company. He was killed on Aug. 1. Police said the youth confessed that he hit Wetters over the head with a heavy wrench.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

High Strung Beginners Need Quiet

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

A GOOD MANY children are entering kindergarten or first grade this autumn for the first time. With this new experience come new stimulations and new needs for adjustments. To some of them who have sensitive nervous systems, who are high strung by nature, the strain is well nigh overwhelming.

A great many of these children will at home appear more restless and nervous. Some will cry more readily and whine; some will acquire stubbornness, some tantrums; some will grow more quarrelsome on the playground; some will smile less and less, be less optimistic, less co-operative. Some, on going to bed, will not readily fall asleep, too tired to sleep, too much excited. Sleep of some will be light, disturbed by dreams or even by night terrors.

New eating problems may arise, and appetites grow dull. Some children show a loss in weight. Other children, will of course, profit from the new regimen which school affords, growing quieter and healthier. The good or ill effects of school will not be limited to the younger children. Those of all ages may show in their general physical and emotional life marked changes with the opening of school.

If we parents are wise we shall be very observing during the first several weeks. In case the changes are noticeably unfavorable, we shall study such changes carefully. In most instances we shall have our physician check up on the child, advising us. In the meanwhile we can be pretty sure, especially with the young child, that any emotional irregularity indicates fatigue and nervous strain. He may have been accustomed to an afternoon nap. Maybe he awakens now a little earlier in the morning and goes to bed a little later. In extreme cases have the child on return from school in the afternoon come into the house and spend half an hour by the clock, in quiet, preferably stretched out, and call him in for fifteen or twenty minutes of relaxation before the evening meal. If he eats very rapidly make him remain at the table, say twenty minutes, no matter how early he had finished eating. If his weight is down, milk ought to help bring it up. In case he needs milk—and experts say that every child needs at least a glass per meal—announce to him that he will not leave the table until it is in his stomach. Then keep quiet and see that you do not prove a liar. On Saturday and Sunday are opportunities for several rest and quiet periods during the day.

All the while reduce unnecessary noises and confusion. Make routine matters simple. Avoid suggestions of anxiety and worry in the presence of the child. If there is a radio, shut off all but soft and quiet music. Let every one speak in soft mellow tones. Nothing so irritating as high squeaky voices; nothing more calming than human speech that is soft and gentle.

The story usually is quieting. Let Dad read, not only to the baby, but to the children of seven or nine. Find ways of reducing conflicts. Where there are several children, work for respecting and protecting individual ownership. Let no home duties for the children overlap. Make each child's duty definite so that he knows when he has finished. Don't be unreasonable about home responsibilities. Work for a few that are done by the child without his being told forever when to do them or until he does them.

If music or dancing lessons are to be added, let them be delayed for a few weeks. Let them go by entirely if signs of nervousness persist. Don't even load up the apparently healthy child with long periods of practice and outside tasks. Seek first the child's health and happiness and all other good things can be added unto them.

Peter's Adventures

EVERY ANT MINDS HIS OWN LITTLE VOICE

Peter could ask more questions than any boy you ever heard of. A new thought struck him.

"Don't you ever have revolutions in Ant-Hill town?" asked he.

"I should say not!" answered Busy. "When I tell you the Queen rules our hearts if not our lives you will understand why we ants never make trouble for her."

"Lucky Queen!" said Peter, thinking of Her Majesty, the Queen of the Bees who came to a sad end the moment a younger rival put in an appearance in her kingdom. "Better never to have power than to suddenly lose it!"

"Glad you agree with me!" said Busy, briskly. "Not that it makes any difference, but I'm always glad to meet folks who think the same way I do. A penny for your thoughts, young Two-Legs. What's worrying you now?"

"I was just thinking what confusion there must be when you're all at home in Ant-Town."

"Why?" Again Busy was puzzled.

"Well, if each and every one of you ants is free to do exactly as you please you must do a lot of bumping into each other." Busy shook her head.

"Don't you believe it!" said that Ant, slantly. "In spite of the fact that each of us is allowed to hunt, nurse, build, fight or farm 'on our own,' as you Humans say, we never have the least bit of disorder. As I told you before, some little voice within each of us tells us what to do. We listen and mind that voice, and we do it right and make a point of minding our own business."

Next: "The Sentinel's Challenge."

Correct this sentence: "Since Doc died," said the widow, "Most of his former patients have called to pay me what they owed him."

Tells Dyspeptics What To Eat

Avoid Gas—Indigestion

Strict diets are often unnecessary in stomach trouble. While some foods do produce excessive acidity and many stomachs do generate "too much acid" causing gas, sourness, bloating and after-eating pains, the trouble may be safely and quickly corrected by the use of a good alkaline. Bismarck Magnesia—powder or tablets—is ideal for this purpose. Just a little after meals neutralizes all the excess acid, prevents souring, breaks up gas and ends indigestion. Favorite foods no longer upset stomach and digestion is easy and painless. It will do all this for you or money back. Reliable druggists everywhere sell Bismarck Magnesia with this guarantee.

Final Kiddies Day At Park Saturday

Carl Shaner, Manager Of Cascade Park To Play
Host To Kiddies
Once Again

Most Elaborate Of Summer Season Will Be Closing
Day For Youngsters

The last big play-day before school for the boys and girls of Lawrence county will be held Saturday, September 6th, at Cascade Park. That will be the occasion of the last big Kiddies Day which is given each park season by Park Manager Carl L. Shaner to give all the youngsters up to sixteen years an opportunity to enjoy the facilities of this fine recreational center at greatly reduced prices for the amusements.

This final Kiddies Day celebration will be more elaborate than ever before. From noon till 6 o'clock in the evening the youngsters will reign supreme. Mothers and Fathers who enjoy watching their children at play will have ample opportunity to see how boys and girls can really have a great time.

The program of sports open to all children of all ages will be in charge of Jack Hulmes. There will be races, contests and games of all sorts with fine prizes for all the Kiddies taking part. The events will be so varied that there will be some for boys and some for girls of all ages up to sixteen years, some in which every child that goes to the picnic may take part.

Candy Shower

Another feature will be the penny scramble and candy shower that will fill the young ones' hands with extra pennies and sweets to make the day still more enjoyable. Other events and features are on the program that will fill the day from the time the picnic gets under way till the time for the Kiddies to go home to bed.

For the smaller children the free playground, which has gained widespread reputation as the safe and delightful place for the kiddies to play, will be the main attraction in the days fun. The Kiddies Midway with its array of amusements will be thrown open to all at greatly reduced prices. Merry-go-round, Seaplane, Pony Track, Old Mill, Miniature Railroad, Miniature Airplane, Miniature Ferris Wheel, Custer Cars, Brownie Coaster and Launch will give the Kiddies rides for 3 cents, while 5 cents will buy a ride on the Dodge 'Em, Laff-in-the-Dark, Tilt-a-whirl, Tumble Bug, Auto Racer and Ponies.

Another fine arrangement for the day is that the youngster who brings his own or her own bathing suit may enjoy all the privileges of the wonderful triple swimming pool for only ten cents.

Cascade's Kiddies Day, are annual events of note, attracting the largest crowd of boys and girls ever assembled in Lawrence county, all bent on crowding into the all too few hours as much as is humanly possible. If you enjoy seeing the kiddies enjoy themselves to the utmost see them at their best at Cascade on Saturday.

Report 455 Planes And 592 Pilots Are Licensed In State

New Castle Motor Club Head Bases Figures On Department Of Commerce
Report

Pennsylvania has a total of 455 licensed aircraft and a total of 592 pilots, according to R. W. Bolsinger, president of the New Castle Motor Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Bolsinger bases his statement on figures reported to the Air Travel Division by the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce, which regulates aviation in the United States.

The A. A. A. Club executive said that the nation has 9,773 licensed and identified aircraft, 13,041 licensed pilots of all classes, and 8,843 mechanics.

"It is significant," he continued, "that 43 per cent of the pilots hold private licenses, while 41 per cent are transport pilots. This means that private flying has gained a strong foothold throughout the country."

"California leads the nation in the number of licensed and identified aircraft, as well as in the number of licensed pilots. This state has 1,275 licensed and unlicensed aircraft and 2,515 pilots. New York, however, has the largest number of licensed aircraft, with 933, while California had 906.

"Illinois was second in the number of identified aircraft, while New York came third. This state was also third from the standpoint of both licensed and identified aircraft."

Mr. Bolsinger declared that there are 5,640 holders of private licenses in the country. California again topped the list with 1,265. New York is second with 682 and Illinois third with 313. Pennsylvania trails the latter state with 296.

Township Codes Planned In Legislative Session

(Special to The News)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 4.—Drafts are being prepared for a series of four new codes to be presented to the 1931 general assembly. These codes are being whipped into shape by the legislative reference bureau.

Two of the four proposed codes will deal with township government. They are being sponsored by the special legislative commission named following the last session to make a study of the subject.

Separate codes will be recommended by the commission to govern first and second class townships. At the present time there is no such differentiation as the commission proposes.

The commission has been faced with a real problem in its study of first class townships. There are several districts coming under this category which have the population of third class cities. Municipal authorities there demand the powers on an equal basis with those in cities.

Other codes being prepared by the reference bureau are for third class cities and also elections. These codes like the two proposed for townships are merely a codification of existing law with no intention of inserting new legislation.

A number of amendments are in the course of preparation to the county code passed by the 1929 legislature. These are more in the nature of fitting new measures approved by the last legislature in with the code.

During the last two sessions of the legislature scores of obsolete statutes have been repealed. The 1931 session will be asked to remove about 75 others which have been found to be unnecessary by experts in preparing legal digests.

Activity of the legislative reference bureau will increase considerably following the November election. Just as soon as many of the legislative candidates know whether or not they are successful at the polls they will be asking the bureau to prepare drafts of proposed bills for them.

Already the bureau has received requests to prepare copies of measures from candidates. These requests are coming in principally from those candidates who are virtually sure of being elected.

Indicted as Wife Slayer Ends Life in Prison Cell

A. D. Payne, Rising Texas Lawyer, Deals Death to Himself in Almost the Identical Way He Had Killed His Wife.

AMARILLO, Tex., Sept. 4.—"Please put me in solitary confinement. I want to be alone with the spirit of my wife. Even now I can hear her calling me."

The man who made this pathetic plea to local jail officials was A. D. Payne, a prominent attorney. He had confessed and been indicted for murdering his wife with a bomb. A few hours after he begged for solitude Payne committed suicide by exploding a vial of nitro-glycerine directly under his body.

Interned in the story of these two amazingly violent acts were the threads of avarice, passion and insanity. Mrs. Payne died after the bomb, attached to the family automobile, had exploded. Investigation disclosed that three sticks of dynamite had been attached to the motor of the car. These blew up while Mrs. Payne was at the wheel. The explosion killed the woman and seriously injured her 14-year-old son.

Payne appeared grief-stricken at the tragedy. He called in Gene Howe an Amarillo newspaper editor, to investigate the mystery.

With the help of a Kansas City newspaper man, Howe discovered that Payne had been making advances to his stenographer, pretty Verona Thompson. The girl admitted that Payne had told her he would "get his wife out of the way so we can elope."

The editor called in the police, who confronted the well-known attorney with the Thompson girl's statement.

He quickly confessed and declared he plotted the murder to gain possession of $40,000 insurance on his wife's life.

Hot-blooded citizens, who had previously known Payne as a quick-witted counselor and a devoted husband, surrounded the jail and demanded he be handed over to them, but the sheriff whisked him off to another institution.

There he signed a full statement in which he spoke contemptuously of the girl whose revelations had resulted in his arrest. When the jail authorities warned him against attempting to take his own life, he declared he was eager for a quick trial and was not contemplating destroying himself.

"It won't be long," he said, "before the law takes what is left of my life." According to Payne's three cellmates, the lawyer had carried the fatal vial around with him for weeks. Many mornings he told them that he had been in spiritual communication with his wife.

Two of them who were in the cell with him went to an adjoining cell a few minutes before the explosion came. They left when he told them he wanted to be alone. Prison authorities said he had apparently laid face downward on his cot and discharged the explosive by hitting it against his chest.

The percussion partly destroyed the cell. Another prisoner, sleeping nearby, was uninjured, but Payne was killed instantly. He had dealt death to himself in almost the identical way he had killed his wife.

(Copyright, 1930, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

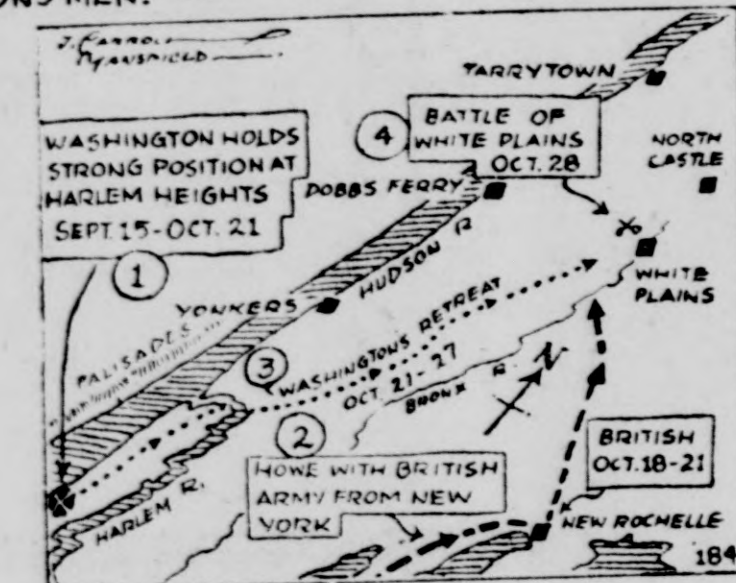

TWO DAYS AFTER THE AMERICAN DEFEAT ON LONG ISLAND WASHINGTON HELD A COUNCIL OF WAR WITH HIS GENERALS. GREENE URGED THAT NEW YORK BE BURNED AND ABANDONED AT ONCE. WASHINGTON SHARED THIS OPINION, BUT HIS ORDERS FROM CONGRESS WERE TO HOLD THE CITY AS LONG AS POSSIBLE.

WITH NO FLEET TO OPPOSE THEM, BRITISH WARSHIPS SAILED UP INTO THE HUDSON AND EAST RIVERS, THREATENING TO TRAP THE AMERICANS IN NEW YORK. SEPTEMBER 15 HOWE'S ARMY CROSSED THE EAST RIVER AT KIPS BAY. WASHINGTON RETREATED UP THE ISLAND, AND THE CITY FELL INTO THE HANDS OF THE ENEMY.

THE NEXT DAY HOWE ATTACKED THE AMERICANS AT HARLEM HEIGHTS. THE CONTINENTALS BRAVELY STOOD THEIR GROUND AND THE ASSAULT OF THE RED COATS ENDED IN A BLOODY REPULSE. THIS SUCCESS RESTORED CONFIDENCE TO WASHINGTON'S MEN.

BY MOVING A LARGE PART OF HIS ARMY TO THE NORTH SHORE OF LONG ISLAND SOUND AND THREATENING WASHINGTON'S LINE OF COMMUNICATION WITH NEW ENGLAND, HOWE FORCED HIS OPPONENT TO QUIT HIS STRONG POSITION AT HARLEM AND RETIRE NORTHWARD. AT WHITE PLAINS ON OCTOBER 28 THE BRITISH GAINED A SLIGHT ADVANTAGE AT THE COST OF MANY MEN.

John McGraw Signs Five-Year Contract

McGraw's Signing of Contract Sets At Rest Rumors In New York City

President Stoneham Of Giants Very Indignant Over Stories "Jawn" To Quit

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—John J. McGraw, who has been managing the New York Giants with registered mail, is to continue with the club for another five years, beginning January 1 next, thus setting at rest a lot of bedtime stories. Among those who knew there never was any question but that McGraw, a New York institution, would continue his association with New York until the end.

The signing of a five-year contract yesterday therefore merely added official confirmation to an established fact. It didn't clear up the mystery of why McGraw, one of those high-pressure guys who like to incite the employees to gallant deeds, has selected the showdown period of the National League race to remain away from his ball team in a far from permanent manner. It developed yesterday, coincident with the release of the official statement to the press, that McGraw and Charley Stoneham, president of the outfit, have been following the fortunes of the Giants over the ticker in Stoneham's office every afternoon for the last month or more. Why is McGraw content to thus hear the Giants play by ear, when obviously he can see them do it with his eyes?

Two explanations were offered yesterday for the fact that Dave Bancroft has been the out-of-town manager of the club since early in August, the first of these being advanced by McGraw's friends, the second by himself. Neither explained anything to me.

Taking them in the order of their presentation, McGraw said that his health was such that he had been ordered by his physician to remain off the bench as much as possible.

I talked to the man yesterday and it seemed to me that, if he looked any better he would be a reproach to various tracts of physical hygiene. However, it may be that glow upon his manly cheek was really but a mask of brave deception, hiding a body wracked with pain, in which case to outline the second explanation would be unnecessary. In fact, I am doing so just to be on the safe side.

It is to the effect that McGraw is remaining in New York in order to confer daily with Stoneham over impending litigation, instituted by P. X. McQuade, their one-time treasurer, some time ago Mr. McQuade was ousted, meaning that he stopped bouncing after he hit the third step and now he is vaguely threatening to rattle some alleged skeletons in the family closet. The matter doubtless is of some interest to McGraw and Stoneham but it doesn't seem plausible that it has had their undivided attention for a month.

As a matter of fact even those who are satisfied that the McQuade situation is the answer don't insist upon a 100 per cent acceptance of this version. They tempt it with plausibility by suggesting that, after the Giants won six of their first seven under Bancroft on the last western trip, McGraw, then ready to rejoin the club, decided against tempting destiny. However, this doesn't explain why McGraw, with practically no destiny to tempt now, is in New York today while the Giants are in Boston.

There simply must be a reason, other than offered, that would prompt this volatile man to accept a passive role in an emergency as acute as this one. But at the same time, I am forced to admit that any explanation is liable to be good as mine, because I have none.

Giants Gain On Faltering Cubs

New York Giants Split Twin Bill With Boston As Cubs Take Socking

THREE AND HALF GAMES IN LEAD

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—When we said yesterday that rumor had it a certain baseball manager was about to shuffle off to spend the rest of his days whittling the club owners immediately called in the manager and gave him a five year contract. We thought we would like to try the trick again today and see if it works with Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs. But on second consideration we decided to wait a bit, as things look rather autumn-like and melancholy for the Braves this morning.

A sixth inning rally which gave the Pirates six counters, nipped the Cubs 9 to 6 and shaved their lead over the Giants, who halved a twin bill, to three and one half games. Teachout and Blake were both shunted to the porcelains in the awful inning as the entire buccaner ensemble trotted to the plate for a total of six hits and two walks. Nelson finally stopped the Pirate's attack.

Giants Muff Chance

The Giants muffed a sweet chance to gain heavily on Chicago, winning 5 to 3 in the opener but collapsed in the tie tilt in the eighth inning as the Braves scored eight runs and snatched it 11 to 7. Bill Walker, ascended and Hub Pruiett, called to the rescue in the crucial inning, was not much of an improvement. Twelve Braves swinging at the ball, which they kept whirling like an ivory on a roulette wheel. The opener was rouched when Lindstrom started a rally with a homer.

In the game finally came the turn for the Yankees, who finally beat Sam Jones and the Senators 10 to 1. Babe Ruth didn't hit a four-baser but whaled a thumping three-sacker which a speedier player would have turned into a homer. Dickey got a homer and two triples for the Yanks. Jim Moore, up from the Texas League, sank a homer in the fourth inning after his double in the third brought in three runs for the A's. The Athletics knocking over the Red Sox 11 to 4. Grove did not finish, but was credited with his twenty-third win.

Other clubs were not scheduled.

Twenty-Five Report To Coach Boyd At Union High School

First Grid Call At Union High School Results In Twenty-Five Candidates

Coach David Morgan Boyd, of Union High school, issued his first call for football material yesterday afternoon, and twenty-five young aspirants to places on the 1930 team registered. It is possible that about ten or fifteen more will report today swelling the squad to 35 or 40.

The popular young mentor of Union High lost no time in getting the boys started in the fundamentals of the grid game, and after passing out the uniforms, he put them through a two-hour workout. More strenuous sessions are planned as the boys become more used to the grid pastime.

The material is very promising according to Coach Boyd, and it is just as well that it is, because Union faces a tough grid this year. The schedule which awaits the boys is quite pretentious.

Boyd will be assisted this year by Floyd Geigher. H. G. Smith will act as faculty manager at Union this year taking the place vacated by C. M. Diehle. Union High is looking forward to a good season.

Titular Series Starts Tonight

Congregational And Energy Play At Clifton Flats In First Of Five Games

The first of a five games series to decide the championship baseball team between the First Congregational team, winners of the Church League and Energy title winners of the City County League will be played tonight at 5:30 o'clock at the Clifton Flats ball orchard.

Both teams are ready for this encounter and are only waiting for the umpires "Play Ball" signal. The Congregationals will likely use their star hurler Seamon tonight in hope of getting the jump on the City County champs. Energy feels confident of taking the measure of the Church League.

One of the biggest crowds ever to witness a contest at Clifton Flats this year is expected to watch this championship encounter. The second game of the series will be played at Energy on Saturday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock.

Spencers-Wampum Battle Tonight

Second Game Of Mercantile Series Will Be Played At Lehigh Field Tonight

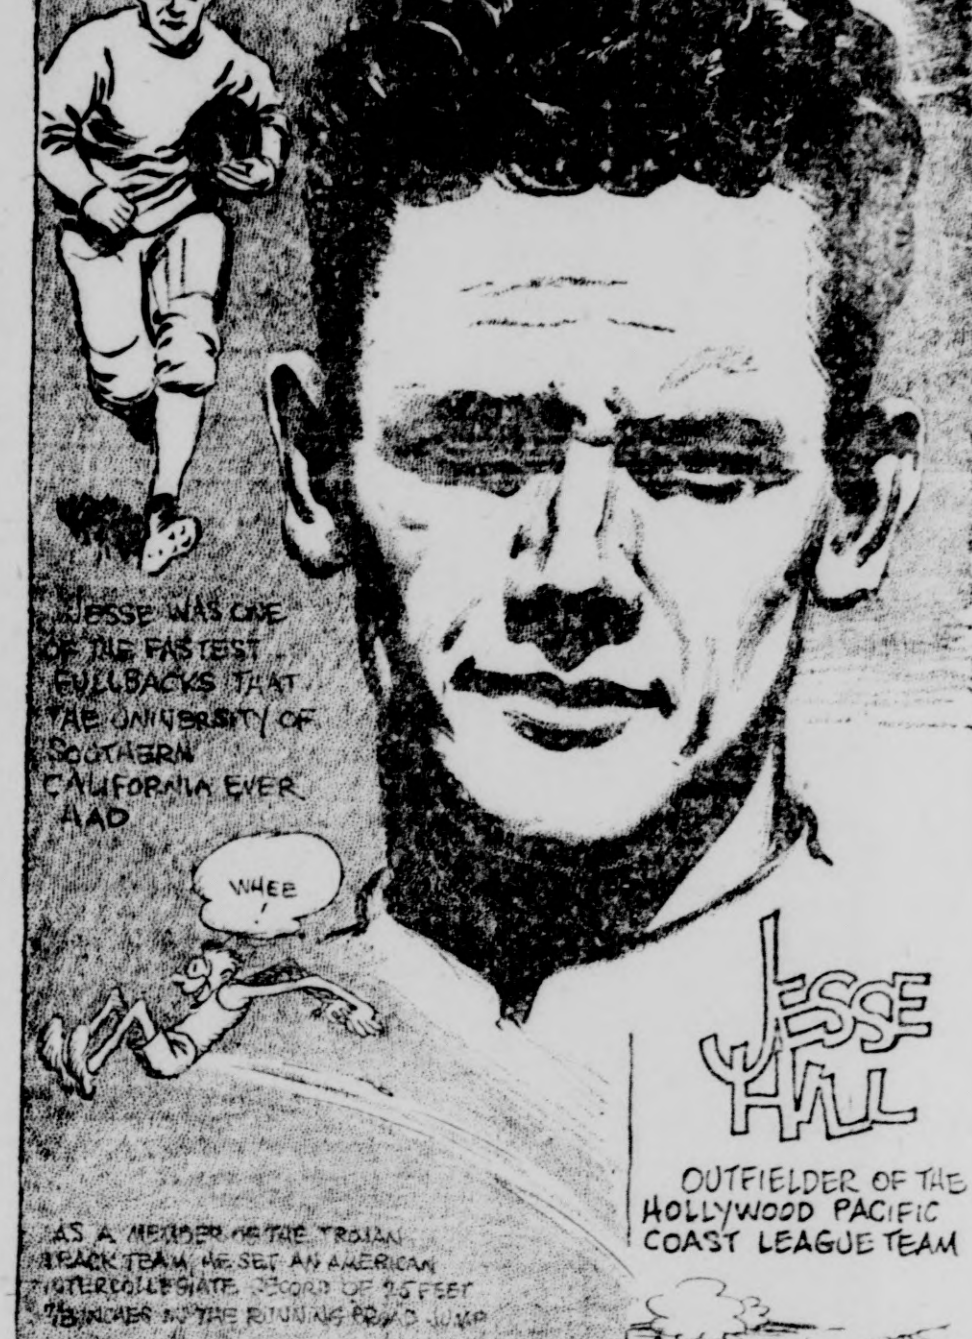

Tonight at the Lehigh field the Wampum team meets the Spencers in the second game of the series for the Mercantile league title. The game starts at six o'clock. The Spencer team already has one victory in the bag and if they beat the Wampum boys tonight it will mean the league flag can be nailed to the mast-head.

President Walther has reached a final decision on the Wampum protest of the first game by declaring the game stands as played and upholding the decisions made by the umpires. This ruling is final and will not be changed.

Friday night at the Lehigh field the Lehigh and Lockleys will battle again in the second game of their series for the Industrial league flag. This game starts at six o'clock. The Lockleys won last night and need but one more victory to put them in "soup".

SORDS POINTS

Grid, Track Star Shines On Diamond

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Artist

California's mighty mountains take a back seat and bow to a Hill these days. For Golden State enthusiasts are shouting the praises of a Hill. The Hill's first name is Jesse.

Jesse, now in the employ of the Hollywood Pacific Coast league club as an outfielder, is getting big notices through his stellar work on the diamond. He's proven so good in a baseball unit that California almost forget that they're been looking at him in sport spectacles for years—but not as a ball player.

As a football man for Southern California he was the fastest fullback the Trojan school ever had. And a fleet-footed fullback who can line plunge like a fullback should be a prize. Hill was just that.

Jesse also started on the cinder path, his greatest feat being his setting a new collegiate record for the running broadjump by sailing through the ozone for a distance of 25 feet and seven-eighths of an inch.

Spying On Sports

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Sports Editor

The most remarkable thing about the international yacht races this year is not the millions of dollars put in the soup to stage the event, but the fact that virtually all Americans hope the other fellow will win. The Americans except Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt and associates who financed, built and will operate the American defender, Enterprise, in the big races.

This strange attitude on the part of the good sporting citizens of These States is not so remarkable when one considers that the American's cup has been in American hands now for one less than 80 years.

Eighty years is a long time to hold a trophy. Too long, in fact. The cup has become somewhat of a bore. It's time to beat the other fellow offener than he beats you, but for him never to win is the same as nothing but ice cream three times a day for a lifetime. You're apt to acquire a pain in the digestive organs.

Baseball once experienced a situation somewhat similar only on a smaller scale. Along about 1910 Mr. Connie Mack of Philadelphia acquired a number of employees who, when acting as a unit, were just about as easy to lick as an income tax blank. I mean it just couldn't be done.

The folks in Philadelphia were very happy over this for awhile, but after years of it, the situation began to pall. They became surfeited with victories and as the seasons went by with day after day the same old show and the same old plot, the Athletics nearly always playing the triumphant heroes, the folks of Philadelphia began to stay away from the local ball yard in large numbers.

So Mr. Mack deliberately wrecked his ball club and things settled down to normalcy again.

Now, this is a suggestion that Mr. Vanderbilt and his associates deliberately run their craft along a reel or something just to let Sir Thomas Lipton and his gallant little Shamrock V carry off the prize. Not at all.

One thing and one thing alone restrains us from going entirely pro-Lipton. And that is this: International yacht race rules favor the defender so much that the local craft, so to speak, has a big edge in the races. The contests are held in the waters of the defender and the challenger must make a journey across the seas. That last item is the rub. The challenger must be built sturdy enough to withstand an Atlantic voyage while the defender need not worry about seaworthiness, the extra weight going into her along lines calculated to make her a faster craft.

So—if Sir Tom wins this time who knows but under existing yacht rules it will be another 80 years before we get the cup back?

Indies-Garland Game Is Halted

The New Castle Indies and the West Pittsburgh Garlands played a three-inning game last night at the West Pittsburgh Field. The Indies were leading 2 to 1, when the game was halted by darkness. It was a pitching duel between Panella and Lazar, each allowing but three safe blows.

Manager Jimmy DuMuccio of the Indies would like to book a return game for Saturday September 13, and the manager of the West Pittsburgh team is asked to call DuMuccio at 9061. The Indies feel confident that they can take the measures of the fast Garlands.

Tonight the Indies start their Little World's Series with the North Highland team. The game starts at 5:45 o'clock. This is a five game series.

High Squad Is Making Progress

First Scrimmage Of Fall Training Season To Occur Today

EARLY TRAINING LARGELY ROUTINE

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh sent the thirty-two 1930 New Castle high school grid candidates through a light workout on Wednesday afternoon at Muddy Creek Falls where the boys are spending one week. The rehearsal was practically the same as Tuesday's except that the boys were sent through signal drills. It is probable that the squad will go through the first scrimmage of the fall training season this afternoon.

The session Wednesday was made up of exercises, tackling the dummy, dummy line scrimmage, and a long signal drill. With three days of the fall training season already gone the grid prospect appear to be getting in condition. It will still take some time before the pig skin catchers will be at the "peak" and ready for the first game on September 19.

Assistant Coach William L. Klee sent the squad through one half an hour of exercises. Following this the boys were sent through dummy tackling exercises which was followed by dummy line scrimmage. The final thing on the program was the signal drill exercise. Daily at night the boys listen to Coach Bridenbaugh give a talk on plays on the blackboard. This is done so that when the boys go to Taggart Field they will have some plays to work on.

It is safe to say that the first scrimmage will be held this afternoon. By scrimmaging the coach will be able to see just what's what. It will give the boys a fair chance to demonstrate their wares. There is only one lad who is on the casualty list at the present. He is Bob Jamison who has a bad arm. He sustained this before he went to camp. So far no one has met with any serious accidents.

Before practice Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner permitted the boys to don their new uniforms for the purpose of having their pictures taken.

Lockleys Beat Lehigh Team In Fine Game 7-0

Lockleys Take First Game Of Three-Game Series For Industrial Title

The Lockley Machine Shop mushball team applied the Kalamazoo brush to the Lehigh Cement team in a series game played at the Lehigh field last night. The final score was 7 to 0. The game was halted at the end of the seventh by darkness. The second game of the series will be played Friday night at the same field.

Mauri, on the knoll for the Lockleys, allowed the Lehigh boys but six hits and pitched an effective game. The Lockleys found Rich for 10 hits. Young featured with a home run drive. Melder, Fernati and Ross had extra base blows also.

Quite a big crowd witnessed the game. Manager Reed of the Lockleys crossed the boys up by sending Mauri, a southpaw, to the rubber instead of Rogers, his ace-in-the-hole.

Speed Kings Here For Race Saturday

Meet Postponed On Labor Day To Be Held Saturday On Fair Grounds Track

NOTED DRIVERS TO RETURN FOR RACE

The 100-mile automobile race scheduled for Labor Day on the local fair grounds will be staged next Saturday afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock sharp. All speed kings who were present for the holiday spectacle, have given their pledge that they will return to this city for postponed century classic.

Jack Hayes, pioneer pilot and track manager, arrived in this city yesterday to see that the course will be in tip-top shape for the delayed Mercurian event. He had it in perfect condition Saturday morning before the rain put in its unwelcome appearance.

Denied the opportunity of giving his car a chance to obtain the prize money offered frequently in the past by unfavorable weather, he placed himself in the position of the drivers and requested a committee selected by them to pass their opinion on whether or not it was advisable to attempt to try to qualify. "Sunny Bill" Clutman, the chairman of the group of aces of speed, took just one look at the three inches of water on the straightaway and made his decision:

"It would be suicide to attempt to run." With the speed kings satisfied that a postponement was in order to save their own necks, Starter Hayes then declared the race off.

FROM TEE TO GREEN

Taking Off That Backswing By ROY GROVE Central Press Golf Writer

After you have taken the correct stance, then comes the problem of getting the club away from the ball that we may come into it properly timed.

The most important of these movements is in getting the hands and club away ahead of the hips, before the body motion starts.

This is done by taking the club back with a stiff left hand and arm to a point of about 60 degrees before breaking the wrists and starting the hips for the upswing.

The importance of this motion takes effect when coming into the ball. It does not allow the hips and body to lead in the hitting, which would happen if the hands, arms and body started the backswing at the same time.

You will note the starting of this action in the larger illustration, and where the arms come back to the point at (E).

At the top of the backswing the knuckles of the left hand are pointing outward. The left hand is more under the shaft than over it. The left shoulder is directly under the chin and the weight is held on a very rigid right leg, which allows for the pivot and the punch when coming into the ball.

Practice taking your club back to a point where the body will feel a slight pull. Harness this take-off by using a stiff right leg stance.

IS IMPROVING Audrey Bridenbaugh, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil H. Bridenbaugh of Edison avenue, who sustained a broken arm when she fell at the New Castle Field club while playing recently, is reported improving.

Football Games To Be Broadcast

When the football season gets under way late this month, hardly a week will go by without one or more of the important gridiron contests being broadcast. The National Broadcasting Company has announced that it will broadcast the details of twenty-one games, while the Columbia system will put ten of the games on the air.

Scout Leaders Find Two-Day Seascout Courses Fascinating; Prospects Here Are Favorable

Twenty-One Scouters Take First Instructions At Camp Phillips

REGIONAL DIRECTOR CALAHAN IN CHARGE

"I am ready to relieve you, sir," "I am ready to be relieved, sir." The starboard watch is going on deck. Breakfast was piped at eight bells. Turn to is at nine-fifteen: hazy weather, stratus clouds, temperature, sixty-eight degrees; barometer steady. Orders for the day are to start instruction immediately after turn to. The skipper is aboard.

This did not occur on a Navy dreadnought, but was the language in which the duties of the day were turned over by the officer of the deck to his relief officer at the Seascout leader's training course held at Scout Camp Phillips over the week end. Twenty-one men and older scouts participated in it, and it was one of the best training courses put on by the Lawrence County council in some time. Extracts from the "log" of the course show these things:

Regional Seascout Director Calahan came aboard at five bells on the afternoon watch on Saturday; with twenty men on deck. All hands were mustered to quarters and instruction started. A general out-line of the course was given, and general features of Seascouting were then explained. The seascout uniform is of white for summer wear, and blue for cold weather; mates and skippers wearing the blue serge double-breasted coat with either white or blue trousers, and the white cap with interchangeable covers. A small embroidered strip over the right pocket of both crew and officer uniforms bears the name "Seascouts, B. S. A."—and immediately identifies the wearer as a member of that organization. In this nation, many other nations having Seascout departments in their scout work.

Calahan's Message

"The idea of Seascouting," stated the director, "is to build up leadership among our nation's boyhood. The Seascout leaves the "boy" out of his official title, for he is rapidly nearing manhood—in fact, many of our Seascouts are now average nineteen years of age. Go down to Philadelphia on any Sunday afternoon and see the number of uniformed Seascouts who are walking through the parks with their girls. The older boy wants to wear this uniform because it is so rich in meaning, tradition and history. It stands for a life whose every day routine develops character and manhood to an unusual degree; and we are all after these qualities.

"But the boy who would become a Seascout must have had the needed land training. 'He little knows the sea who never knew land,' and the boy who has made a good record in his scout troop, who has advanced himself to first class rank, and who has passed his fifteenth birthday, is eligible to this new work. Some scoutmasters may think that this will take him away from his troop; but the fact is that Seascouts are loyal, and are always ready to help give instruction or tests to their brother scouts who are doing the land work. Seascouting is simply a program of activities which teach a boy something of the manners, customs and handicrafts of the sea."

The men present were then organized into two boat crews, and watches were set, with Ropp of New Bedford as coxswain of the starboard watch and Ueber of Ellwood as coxswain of the ship then held away, and some of the customs and ceremonies were demonstrated. Ship's time was explained, eight bells every four hours (twelve, four and eight) and the honors paid to officers coming aboard or leaving.

Rope Work Practiced

A period in rope work followed, and two new methods for tying the square knot and bowline were demonstrated. A period on charts was then held, with Calahan explaining the ways in which these were used at sea.

The bosh's call of "spread mess gear" then sounded, and ten minutes later all hands were piped to mess. After supper was finished the crews were given free time until an informal campfire in the evening, this being held on the council ring site in the Indian village. Each watch furnished its share of the entertainment with Ropp's crew putting on two sketches and Ueber's crew presenting several songs and a spiritualist séance; wherein some startling disclosures were made about some of the members of the crews present.

All hands piped down at somewhat irregular hours: ship routine being temporarily thrown overboard. However, six bells next morning heard the morning gun and the "All Hands" of the boat's pipe; and the crews mustered to breakfast shortly afterward. Some of the men did not resist the temptation of tying up some clothes of tardy bathers, and the old "chaw bacon" custom had to be revived. (There's deep stuff somewhere afloat, mates!)

The watches were relieved: Elder of Ellwood taking over and Sid Smith of New Castle relieving Ropp. Calahan came aboard at fifteen minutes after two bells, and a chartroom period of signalling followed. This interested the men greatly. Executive Horton then conducted a period in splicing: the back, short, long and eye splices being used. A lesson on ship's bearings followed, and a talk on a yearly set of objectives for Seascout units was supplemented by mimeographed plans which each man took home with him.

Functions Jointly

The ways in which Seascouting was geared into the local scout council work were then explained. Scoutmasters desiring to organize a Seascout patrol must name an additional troop committee member for each Seascout patrol. The council appoints a Seascout committee, with the chairman to be known as the commodore. Boys who have dropped out of Scouting within the past year may come back into their own troops as Seascouts if they are eligible, but not go to another troop within that time. Seascouting breeds a high sense of loyalty.

An open discussion as to local extension and program followed, and every man present showed much interest in the proposed new work. There still remains two projects which these men must finish to qualify for the specialty course diploma: rigging a model ship, and making a canvas seabag. The scout executive is sending for model plans this week and these should be available within the next ten days. Seabags are described in the Manual.

After dinner the course was dismissed and the men got under way for their various towns. All agreed that it had been a most helpful exposition of the work, and it looks as if a number of Seascout patrols would be in operation throughout Lawrence County before the first of the new year.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

I can think of very few nicer ways of spending an evening than wrestling with a half dozen roasting ears, trimmed up with a load of melted butter and some salt and pepper. And if perchance a flock of hot airdrales and some buns and coffee are tossed in to make weight, the pleasure is the more enhanced.

All of which is prefatory to the statement that nothing short of a national disaster is going to keep me away from the annual corn roast of the New Castle works next Saturday evening at Lakewood. The invitations are a work of art, but the thing back of the invitation is a lot nicer.

The invite starts out by saying that it will be a big whoopee party. Swimming, baseball, horseshoe, races, dancing and bingo are all catered for the afternoon and all of them are a lot of fun, but to my rather peculiar sense of the proportion of things, the big event of the day will be the demolition of roasting corn. As a swimmer I am no Johnny Weissmuller, mush-bum doesn't know me as a star and on the dance floor I have been accused of having all the graceful agility of a baby elephant.

But in moving off rows of roasting ears, now there's a sport as is a sport. Either speed or endurance in the gray art of yodelling roasting corn appeals to me and I still have the marks on a thumb where I forgot to slow down for a turn at one particular corn eating festival.

This does not appear on the program, but the rumor has been bruited about that Ed Russell of the New Castle works will demonstrate a new device at the corn roast Saturday night. Seems that after several years of research work he has been able to combine roasting ears and mouth organs and in the future the crunching of corn will be drowned out in the musical accompaniment of the eaters.

Down on the bottom of the invitation it says that the committee must know immediately whether or not the recipient of the invitation will attend. The answer is yes.

The lowly hot dog has been dressed up in a silk hat in the east. The attendant at the various tummy stumps rather looks askance when you step up and ask for a hot dog. In a rather quizzical manner his eyes rove over to the sign which reads "Frankfurter and loaves."

All of which is so much huckleberry marmalade if you ask me. They can call this succulent delicacy anything they please, but it will still be a hot dog to the gang down on the other side of the tracks. Frankfurter and roll indeed. The name is too long, has little poetry or romance in it, doesn't fit the tongue and smacks too much of Fifth Avenue. Hot dogs they were and hot dogs they're going to be, no matter if all the doggeries on the eastern shore dress up the name.

Passed by Thaddeus Stevens school the other afternoon and noticed that the window frames and sash are all painted white, which adds a rather stunning touch to the old building. Been a good many years since the conductor of this colymun trudged up Harrison street in the morning to attend there, but the old school is still an interesting spot.

September 10 and 11 is the date of the annual Garden club flower show in the Carnegie auditorium. You really can't afford to miss seeing what a show this is.
